Advance Guard For Peace Force Flies To Cyprus

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Confronted by a Turkish invasion threat the Security Council approved unanimously Friday night a resolution calling for "hands off" Cyprus while the United Nations speeds a peace force to the Mediterranean island republic.

The resolution was adopted at an emergency session of the Security Council where Turkey denied that its invasion threat meant an attack on Cyprus was imminent. Turkey gave that reply to a charge by Cyprus that an invasion could come at any moment.

As the Security Council acted, Canada's House of Commons endorsed dispatch of 1,150 troops for the U.N. peace force on Cyprus. A planeload of army and air officers was already on its way as the vanguard.

The steps taken in Ottawa and assurance to the council from Secretary - General U Thant that a 7,000-man force would be in Cyprus shortly eased an atmosphere of crisis over the situation. The Turkish denial was an added factor.

Brazilian Ambassador Carlos Alfredo Bernardes introduced the resolution, which was sponsored also by Norway, Bolivia, the Ivory Coast and Morocco.

The resolution took note of Goldwater Raps Smears In Primary

Opponents Raise 'Phantom Issues,' Senator Charges

FRESNO, Calif. (AP)—Barry Goldwater came to a sunny California reception Friday and raised a "smear" charge in the state's presidential primary campaign.

The Arizona senator accused opponents of promoting "phantom issues to divide and confuse" Republican voters in his California contest with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

POLITICAL POSITION

At the outset of a nine-day tour, he said this is his position: He's going to continue to denounce left-wingers who, he said, are entrenched in posts of power and influence with the Johnson administration.

But, in this primary race he called the most important of all, he said, "I seek the support of no extremist groups—of the left or of the right. I seek only the support of California Republicans."

His statement countered assertions by pro-Rockefeller elements that a Goldwater victory in California would be a victory for the extreme right wing. In addition, Rockefeller himself has urged his rival to renounce any support by John Birchers and other rightists.

FBI Arrests Two Men For Rail Blasts

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP)—Two ex-employes of the Florida East Coast Railway were charged Friday with trying to dynamite a train, another was charged with conspiracy and a dragnet was set for a fourth. They were the first arrests by the FBI during a year-long investigation of violence on the line.

Two former switchmen on the strike-plagued road were arrested here Thursday night after FBI agents saw three men drive in a Cadillac to a railroad bridge where a charge of 15 dynamite sticks was found minutes later. Agents said the third man got away when the car eluded them driving back to Fort Pierce from the trestle in Indian River County, 10 miles to the north.

THIRD MAN

Another man, Hugh Winn, 50, of Miami—a former car foreman—was arrested in Miami on Friday and charged with conspiracy. The U.S. attorney in Fort Pierce said, without naming Winn, that he sold dynamite to the other men.

The arrests were the first made since five dynamite blasts staggered the road in the first weeks this year, the last one less than 20 miles from the spot where President Johnson was speaking in northern Florida. More than 200 acts of sabotage have been committed against the railroad since the strike began a year ago.

Agents told U.S. Commissioner James E. Alderman that they had been tailing John Wesley Davis, 28, of nearby Port St. Lucie, known as "Barefoot Picket," and Joseph Leo Vedder, 32, of Miami almost around the clock since March 8.

"I was hiding in the jungle," agent Robert M. MacNamara said, when he saw the Cadillac drive two men up to the bridge Thursday night. He said Davis, whose left leg is in a cast as a result of an auto accident, was driving and Vedder was a passenger.

Sen. Long Fights Rights With Words

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., maintained Friday that when the Founding Fathers wrote all men are created equal they meant British gentlemen in the United States were equal to British gentlemen in London.

Long made the statement in carrying the brunt of the Southern attack on the House-passed civil rights bill as debate on the measure droned on through its fifth day.

He had just said "anyone would be a fool" who does not recognize obvious differences and inequalities between the races.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., who was word-dueling with Long, rose to ask: "Can I believe my ears that the senator from Louisiana is attacking the Declaration of Independence?"

Long replied he was just seeking to correct it and added: "Anyone who knows anything about heredity traits knows that all people are not created equal, they are different.

"Thomas Jefferson, who lings, sixpence — 21 cents — a laration of Independence, had approximately 200 slaves. He didn't liberate those slaves."

Long, whose father, the late Sen. Huey P. Long, is remembered for his colorful filibuster tactics in the 1930s, made the longest speech so far in the debate, 3 hours and 56 minutes.

'JUSTICE AT STAKE'

Ruby Trial Jurors Hear Summation

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby's murder trial jury Friday night heard the state charge that American justice is on trial for the slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

Ruby, who shot Oswald to death Nov. 24, blinked his eyes rapidly as Dist. Atty. William Alexander opened the state's summation by declaring: "I'm not going to defend Oswald to you. I tell you this — American justice is on trial. American justice had Oswald in its possession. Oswald was entitled to the protection of the law until the law chose not to protect him but to punish him. He was entitled to a fair trial."

DEMANDS DEATH

Alexander then wheeled around and pointed a finger at Ruby and shouted: "You denied him the very thing you demand the loudest. How horrible can an act be when you realize he shot a man who was in the hands of the law, who was in handcuffs. There is no justice in that."

In concluding his summation, Alexander demanded the death penalty for Ruby and thundered: "This is a wanton killing. I tell you Jack Ruby misjudged public opinion. He thought he could kill Lee Oswald and become a hero. He thought he could make money out of it.

"He's nothing but a thrill killer, seeking notoriety. He has mocked American justice while the spotlight of the world was on us."

Defense attorney Phil Burleson then opened the summations in Ruby's behalf.

Burleson, in a 21-minute argument, attributed Ruby's actions to "the seeing of a sneering, smirking, Communist killer of the president of the United States."

"This is the Lee Harvey Oswald we know about," Burleson

LBJ Calls For Quick Flood Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson made a flying inspection trip over the flood-ravaged Ohio River Valley on Friday and promised that "no time will be lost" in bringing aid to the stricken area.

Johnson made the pledge before several hundred spectators gathered at Greater Cincinnati Airport where his big jet transport set down for half an hour before taking off for the capitol.

MEETS WIFE

Then he returned to Andrews Air Force Base near Washington, landing just a few minutes before Mrs. Johnson and former president Harry S. Truman landed on their return trip from Greece, where they attended the funeral of King Paul.

Johnson waited for his wife and Truman as their plane taxied in on its final leg of a transatlantic flight.

On the flight to Cincinnati, Johnson conferred aloft with the governors of five states and promised to "act promptly and with dispatch" in providing aid funds.

The President talked to the governors informally as his blue and silver jet circled the waterlogged campus of Ohio University at Athens, Ohio, at an altitude of 3,500 feet. Athens is on the Hocking River—a tributary of the muddy, rampaging Ohio.

Johnson's flight, announced only three hours before his departure from Washington, took him through sometimes - hazy skies over flood-stricken sections of Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana and Illinois.

FOR D'ARBONNE LAKE

Two-Parish Mill Tax To Be Asked

By SAM HANNA
World Political Editor

Chairman Armand Rabun of the D'Arbonne Lake Commission disclosed here Friday that a two-parish mill tax would be offered in the Legislature for the development of Lake D'Arbonne.

He told the Monroe Optimist Club that the one-mill tax would apply to Union and Lincoln parishes to provide about $250,000 annually for the lake.

"Our commission does not have any revenue to spend on the development of the lake and of course money is needed for projects to improve Lake D'Arbonne," Rabun said.

MEETING SET

He noted that a meeting would be held March 20th for the state to officially accept the D'Arbonne project, then turn it over to the commission for supervision.

"Commission members, who serve without pay, serve concurrently with the term of the governor, which means that a new commission will take office around the first of May," Rabun said.

"A new commission will be appointed, I am sure," he added. "The commission powers are broad and actually the commission can do anything a Police Jury can do and then some. I am sure the governor will take that into consideration when he makes the appointments."

Rabun has served as chairman since the commission was established in 1956.

He pointed out that the lake was 1.2 feet from being completely filled with water. The lake will be maintained at 84-foot level.

"If present trends continue, cities like Monroe will depend on reservoirs like D'Arbonne for

U.S. Unlikely To Extend War Beyond Border

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's visit has left the impression that while the United States will step up its participation in the Communist guerrilla war it is unlikely to extend operations beyond South Viet Nam's border.

Various Washington officials have dropped some broad hints that the United States might take some action against Communist North Viet Nam, the chief support of the guerrillas.

But McNamara himself told reporters that the primary way of winning the war is by fighting it in South Viet Nam.

West Monroe's Chamber Fete To Be April 2

Thursday, April 2, is the new date of the annual banquet of the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce.

Chamber President Tex Kilpatrick announced Friday the two-week postponement because of a change of the schedule of Louisiana Gov.-Elect John McKeithen, slated to be featured speaker.

Kilpatrick stressed in a bulletin to the organization's 300-plus members that McKeithen definitely would speak. Hour and location of the banquet remains the same — 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of West Monroe High School.

The occasion will include installation of new officers and directors.

Kilpatrick attributed McKeithen's inability to fulfill the original March 19 banquet date to "a trip to the west coast to investigate a very important industrial prospect for Louisiana."

Officials were in phone contact with McKeithen aides Friday to arrange a firm date for April 2. They were assured a confirming wire would reach West Monroe late Friday or this morning.

"Interest has been so high in hearing the new governor that we thought it best to postpone our banquet until such time as he could arrange to be with us," said Chamber Manager Eugene Smith.

Soviets Claim U.S. Bomber On Spying Mission

BERLIN (AP)—An Eastern source contended Friday that Soviet investigators have uncovered evidence that the U.S. bomber shot down over East Germany was on an espionage mission.

"There is no doubt that the bomber was sent on a specific mission," this informant said in East Berlin. The U.S. position from the start has been that the plane blundered across the border.

Earlier, another informant said the Soviet Union had offered to release the three fliers who parachuted from the plane Tuesday if the U.S. government admits publicly that it ordered them to fly over Communist territory.

The Soviets threatened to try the three fliers on spy charges if the U.S. government does not issue such a public admission, this informant said. They would be charged with carrying out espionage on their own. If convicted, they would receive harsh punishment, the Soviets are reported to have said.

Red Satellites Loosening Ties

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Friday that nearly all Eastern European countries are trying to reduce their economic dependence on Russia and are "showing a nostalgia for their historic relations with the West."

It is for reasons such as this, he said, that the United States is taking a realistic look at the possibilities of expanded trade with "certain" of the Communist countries — such as Eastern European nations, as opposed to Red China, North Viet Nam, North Korea or Cuba.

GOVERNMENT MOUSER

Peter Cat Buried With British Pomp

LONDON (AP)—Peter the cat from Government Row was laid to rest Friday in a grassy plot overlooking the playing fields of an East London suburb.

He was followed to the graveside by a donkey, two elderly ladies in government service, one in tears, and a posse of newsmen.

For most of his nine lives Peter, a gray alley cat, had been a salaried employe as head mouser of the Home Office, the government ministry which runs the nation's police, security forces and immigration affairs. His wages of two shillings, sixpence — 21 cents — a week went for food.

On Monday, he was put to sleep at the venerable age of 16 because of an incurable liver ailment.

Peter was buried in the Ilford dog and cat cemetery of the People's Dispensary for Sick Animals where there are more than 1,000 neat headstones, each suitably engraved. He was allocated grave No. 1,746 and was buried in an oak casket with bronze handles. A white-coated attendant wheeled him to the graveside on a barrow covered by a blue velvet mantle.

A donkey from the dispensary, also covered with a blue velvet mantle, was led behind Peter's coffin as chief mourner. Then came two elderly ladies from the Home Office and a crowd of newsmen and photographers.

One of the ladies had tears in her eyes as Peter was lowered into his grave. Both declined to answer questions or give their names.

"We are here in a private capacity," said the one who dropped the tear.

Peter's post as chief mouser already has been filled by a Manx cat, offered to Home Secretary Henry Brooke by Sir Ronald Garvey, the Isle of Man's lieutenant governor.

Bribery Scandal Tormenting IRS

NEW YORK (AP)—A bribery scandal that reputedly has cost the government $3 million in revenue is tormenting the Internal Revenue Service in New York at the height of the income tax season.

Thirty-two persons — 15 IRS employes and 17 lawyers and accountants—have been arrested since Feb. 4.

Eleven of the employes worked in the IRS Manhattan district, the nation's largest. It handles two million tax returns and produces $14 billion in government income annually. The other four worked in Brooklyn.

IN LAKE PONTCHARTRAIN

Divers To Check Report Of Airliner

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Divers and additional equipment moved into Lake Pontchartrain late Friday to investigate reports that the main portion of the hull of a missing airliner had been found.

Searchers for the Civil Aeronautics Board here said it was "believed" they have located the hull of the Eastern Air Lines jetliner that crashed into the lake Feb. 25, killing all 58 persons aboard.

In Washington, the CAB said it had reports that parts of the center section, and tail, landing gear and skin section, and pieces of tires have been found.

No bodies have been recovered intact. Attempts were being made to identify the recent discovery of two torsos of women as crash victims.

The search has been concentrated in the northeastern sector of the lake where the water is about 15 feet deep. In many places the silt is up to 20 feet. Divers equipped with powerful air jets were poised to blow silt away from the wreckage so a closer inspection could be made.

Normally, a score or more of surface craft have searched during daylight hours.

Lighting equipment was sent to the scene to facilitate night operations.

A spokesman for CAB said a large portion of fuselage found in the lake is apparently the ill-fated DC-8, but he added, it would take additional exploration to be certain it is the aircraft sought for 18 days.

William Lamb, chief investigator here for the CAB, was reported enroute to the scene. An aide said it could be a matter of hours, rather than days, before it would be known whether it is the missing plane.

The hull, found by one of the CAB's search boats, is located 3½ miles south of Goose Point on the lake. This would make it about 5½ to 6 miles due east of the northern portion of the 24-mile-long-causeway which bisects the lake. The lake is about 30 miles wide at its broadest section.

He noted that a meeting would be held March 20th for the state to officially accept the D'Arbonne project, then turn it over to the commission for supervision.

"Commission members, who serve without pay, serve concurrently with the term of the governor, which means that a new commission will take office around the first of May," Rabun said.

"A new commission will be appointed, I am sure," he added. "The commission powers are broad and actually the commission can do anything a Police Jury can do and then some. I am sure the governor will take that into consideration when he makes the appointments."

Rabun has served as chairman since the commission was established in 1956.

U.S. Unlikely To Extend War Beyond Border

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's visit has left the impression that while the United States will step up its participation in the Communist guerrilla war it is unlikely to extend operations beyond South Viet Nam's border.

Various Washington officials have dropped some broad hints that the United States might take some action against Communist North Viet Nam, the chief support of the guerrillas.

But McNamara himself told reporters that the primary way of winning the war is by fighting it in South Viet Nam.

Area Showers Forecast Today

Strong southern winds with showers and thundershowers will dominate the Twin City weather picture today. The forecast calls for scattered showers throughout the day, ending tonight.

MILD

Winds will be southerly at 10 to 20 mph shifting to northerly later today and diminishing Sunday.

Mild temperatures will be in effect today with a high forecast of 66 to 72, but a light cold front is expected to move in about dark and drop temperatures to a low mark of 42 to 46 tonight.

Thermometer readings Friday revealed a high of 71 with a low of 46.

FBI Arrests Two Men For Rail Blasts

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP)—Two ex-employes of the Florida East Coast Railway were charged Friday with trying to dynamite a train, another was charged with conspiracy and a dragnet was set for a fourth. They were the first arrests by the FBI during a year-long investigation of violence on the line.

Two former switchmen on the strike-plagued road were arrested here Thursday night after FBI agents saw three men drive in a Cadillac to a railroad bridge where a charge of 15 dynamite sticks was found minutes later. Agents said the third man got away when the car eluded them driving back to Fort Pierce from the trestle in Indian River County, 10 miles to the north.

THIRD MAN

Another man, Hugh Winn, 50, of Miami—a former car foreman—was arrested in Miami on Friday and charged with conspiracy. The U.S. attorney in Fort Pierce said, without naming Winn, that he sold dynamite to the other men.

The arrests were the first made since five dynamite blasts staggered the road in the first weeks this year, the last one less than 20 miles from the spot where President Johnson was speaking in northern Florida. More than 200 acts of sabotage have been committed against the railroad since the strike began a year ago.

Agents told U.S. Commissioner James E. Alderman that they had been tailing John Wesley Davis, 28, of nearby Port St. Lucie, known as "Barefoot Picket," and Joseph Leo Vedder, 32, of Miami almost around the clock since March 8.

"I was hiding in the jungle," agent Robert M. MacNamara said, when he saw the Cadillac drive two men up to the bridge Thursday night. He said Davis, whose left leg is in a cast as a result of an auto accident, was driving and Vedder was a passenger.

IN LAKE PONTCHARTRAIN

Divers To Check Report Of Airliner

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Divers and additional equipment moved into Lake Pontchartrain late Friday to investigate reports that the main portion of the hull of a missing airliner had been found.

Searchers for the Civil Aeronautics Board here said it was "believed" they have located the hull of the Eastern Air Lines jetliner that crashed into the lake Feb. 25, killing all 58 persons aboard.

In Washington, the CAB said it had reports that parts of the center section, and tail, landing gear and skin section, and pieces of tires have been found.

No bodies have been recovered intact. Attempts were being made to identify the recent discovery of two torsos of women as crash victims.

The search has been concentrated in the northeastern sector of the lake where the water is about 15 feet deep. In many places the silt is up to 20 feet. Divers equipped with powerful air jets were poised to blow silt away from the wreckage so a closer inspection could be made.

Normally, a score or more of surface craft have searched during daylight hours.

Lighting equipment was sent to the scene to facilitate night operations.

A spokesman for CAB said a large portion of fuselage found in the lake is apparently the ill-fated DC-8, but he added, it would take additional exploration to be certain it is the aircraft sought for 18 days.

William Lamb, chief investigator here for the CAB, was reported enroute to the scene. An aide said it could be a matter of hours, rather than days, before it would be known whether it is the missing plane.

The hull, found by one of the CAB's search boats, is located 3½ miles south of Goose Point on the lake. This would make it about 5½ to 6 miles due east of the northern portion of the 24-mile-long-causeway which bisects the lake. The lake is about 30 miles wide at its broadest section.

West Monroe's Chamber Fete To Be April 2

Thursday, April 2, is the new date of the annual banquet of the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce.

Chamber President Tex Kilpatrick announced Friday the two-week postponement because of a change of the schedule of Louisiana Gov.-Elect John McKeithen, slated to be featured speaker.

Kilpatrick stressed in a bulletin to the organization's 300-plus members that McKeithen definitely would speak. Hour and location of the banquet remains the same — 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of West Monroe High School.

The occasion will include installation of new officers and directors.

Kilpatrick attributed McKeithen's inability to fulfill the original March 19 banquet date to "a trip to the west coast to investigate a very important industrial prospect for Louisiana."

Officials were in phone contact with McKeithen aides Friday to arrange a firm date for April 2. They were assured a confirming wire would reach West Monroe late Friday or this morning.

"Interest has been so high in hearing the new governor that we thought it best to postpone our banquet until such time as he could arrange to be with us," said Chamber Manager Eugene Smith.

I know the Neville Band has received many honors. Could you tell me some of their honors and some of the places they have been?

During the past several years Neville's band has received superior ratings at state band festivals, high ratings in marching as well as concert playing, solo and ensemble performances, membership in the all-state band and has represented Louisiana in the presidential inauguration parade in 1961.

I am planning to marry a man that is drawing disability Social Security benefits. His check is $65 a month. I have three children under 18 years of age. Will my children and I be able to draw Social Security benefits on his credits?

You have not furnished enough information for an answer. For instance, is the father of your children alive? If not, are they (or yourself) receiving any Social Security benefits from their father? If you will send this information in, we will try to answer the question. Or, take the problem directly to the Social Security office in Monroe.

• • •

As big as your newspaper is and as many of them as you sell in Delhi, why would you crowd 13 of northeast Louisiana's loveliest girls into a 5 by 5 inch square and give the same amount of space to one Hereford bull during coverage of the Northeast Louisiana Livestock Show?

Well basically, the show was all about livestock rather than beautiful girls. But, on the other hand, your point is very well taken. It would be most difficult, however, to crowd 13 bulls into one 5 by 5 square.

• • •

My husband and I both pay on Social Security. When I become 62 will I collect on my own Social Security or will I have to draw a wife's part on my husband's benefits? We both pay the maximum.

The local social security office says the answer depends on which would pay the higher benefit. Records of both parties would be checked and you would receive the highest amount to which entitled.

• • •

When a man and his wife have been separated four years, are they supposed to fill out one income tax form or are separate forms required?

You did not say whether or not the couple have a legal separation or whether or not they are merely living apart. However, no Internal Revenue Service rule requires married persons to file joint returns. They can always file a separate return if they so desire. Divorced or legally separated persons, on the other hand, may not file joint returns. They are not married as far as the revenue department is concerned, and cannot file together.

• • •

Why is Dennis Weaver (Chester) not appearing on the television show "Gunsmoke" this season?

CBS televsions replies that Weaver is appearing in a limited number of shows this year. Next season he will go to NBC for a series of his own.

• • •

When was the last year in which February had five Sundays? When will the next one be?

February 1948 had five Sundays. The next one will be in 1976. In order for February to have five Sundays, it must be a Leap Year and Feb. 1 must fall on Sunday.

Could you tell me if a person 63 years old can draw Social Security and old age pension if they are drawing $50 a month from the government for widow's compensation?

Social Security is not concerned with other benefits. The only income that would affect Social Security benefits would be if you went to work and earned the money. Welfare pensions, on the other hand, are affected by the amoun tof money you make, how much you have on hand (in the bank, etc.) and amount of property you might own. In order to get a specific answer you would have to take all the facts to the welfare department and to the Social Security office.

• • •

I am divorced and have one child. Can I make a will giving half of my Social Security benefits to my mother and the other half to my daughter in the event of my death?

The local Social Security office says you cannot will your Social Security. If you daughter is under the age of 18 at the time of your death, she would be entitled to Social Security in the event you were covered. The only way your mother could receive your Social Security benefits would be for her to prove that she was dependent on you for 50 per cent or more of her livelihood.

Was the decision by the Monroe City School Board to retain the ninth grade in Jefferson Junior High School only, based on sound educational planning? What does research tell us regarding grades to be included in junior high schools? Will the ninth grade be included in Lee Junior High also?

City Supt. Van D. Odom asserts the Jefferson decision was based on sound planning, adding that "most" junior high schools include the seventh, eighth and ninth grades. Lee will not include a ninth grade, however, because of a lack of space, the superintendent notes.

• • •

Why is there a need for the State Board of Education to conduct a study for a high school on the south side of Monroe? Was their advice sought when building Jefferson Junior High and Minnie Ruffin Elementary? Why were two months allowed to pass before telling the group requesting the (south side high) school that a study by the State Board of Education would be asked for?

City Supt. Van D Odom quotes Louisiana law as the reason for the education department survey. R. S. 17:151 reads: "Central or high schools may be established when necessary, but no high school shall be established without the sanction of the State Board of Education."

"The department cannot be expected to sanction a high school without a survey to show the need," Odom adds.

Approval of the state agency was not solicited in the case of Jefferson, the superintendent explained because it is not required for the construction of junior high schools. "However, members of the local school board office made surveys to determine the need for a southside junior high school, as well as for the Minnie Ruffin school."

The two-month, January to March, lapse between request and call for survey on the southside high school, Odom says, resulted largely because of time required to assure validity of approximately 2,200 petitions asking for the school. "We gave the group an answer in March, as they requested," he points out.

Under current federal income tax regulations, does a professional person, such as a doctor or a minister, have an election in the reporting of automobile expenses by using 12 to 15 cents per mile traveled in his business, rather than computing his expenses for gas, oil, depreciation, repairs, etc.?

The local office of the Internal Revenue Service says this: There is a new ruling just received which says the following: "Subject to the conditions and limitations set forth herein, a self-employed individual or an employee may choose to compute the deductible costs of operating his passenger automobile for business purposes by use of a standard mileage rate of 10 cents per mile for the first 15,000 miles of business purposes and 7 cents per mile for business purposes in excess of 15,000 miles per year."

This is a paragraph from Revenue Procedure 64-10 in Internal Revenue Bulletin 1964-6 dates Feb. 10, 1964. It is effective for income tax returns filed this year."

However, the local office warned that there are numerous exceptions to this rule. They recommended that you consult your income tax authority on the matter.

When is the Venice Film Festival held? Is it open to the public?

From sources we were able to learn that the film festival is usually held during the last two weeks, or latter part of August. Tickets are sold to the event. We suggest for fuller information that you write the Italian Consulate General of Italy at 3803 St. Charles Ave. in New Orleans. The telephone number if you would prefer to call is TW 5-7744.

Fire Damages Boxcars Near Depot At Jena

JENA (Special) — A fire of undetermined origin burned the super structure of a side-tracked caboose Friday near the Jena depot then spread to adjoining boxcars causing extensive damage to one and partial damage to another.

There were no injuries reported in the fire first discovered about 4 p.m. by children playing near the tracks.

According to railroad superintendent Williams, firemen were unable to stop the fire immediately due to the side-tracked cars location. Firemen strung hose over a long distance in order to combat the blaze.

Williams said no estimate of damage could be made immediately.

U.S. Tells Wallace To Integrate State On Eve Of Presidential Campaign

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Gov. George C. Wallace was confronted with a federal government demand for statewide school desegregation Friday as he prepared to open his presidential campaign.

The Justice Department asked a three-judge federal court to outlaw racial segregation in Alabama's public school system and, at the same time, to prohibit Wallace from interfering.

The governor withheld immediate comment.

He went ahead meanwhile with plans to fly to Wisconsin next week to start campaigning in that state's Democratic presidential primary. He qualified last week to run as a champion of states' rights and a militant foe of integration.

The Justice Department request for "affirmative steps" to eliminate Alabama's duel school system for white and Negro pupils came in briefs filed with the three-judge court, which has under consideration a desegregation suit filed earlier by Negro attorneys.

The judges heard testimony two weeks ago, then gave opposing attorneys additional time to submit written briefs. No ruling is likely until after the April 13 deadline for receiving the briefs.

In addition to statewide desegregation, the Justice Department asked the court to:

—Hand down an injunction prohibiting Wallace from interfering with court-ordered desegregation anywhere in Alabama. The governor has used state troopers in the past to delay the enrollment of Negroes in white schools.

—Rule that Alabama's school placement law has been administered illegally because, the governor said, local boards use racial criteria in enforcing the law.

—Prohibit the use of state funds as tuition grants for white students who attend private schools rather than go to public schools with Negroes.

The placement law, which gives city and county boards almost unlimited authority to assign pupils, has been held constitutional on its face by the Supreme Court. But that decision said the law could be thrown out if found to be unfairly administered.

The pending federal desegregaiton grew out of the action of Wallace and other members of the State Board of Education in ordering desegregated Tuskegee High School closed.

U.S. Tells Wallace To Integrate State On Eve Of Presidential Campaign

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Gov. George C. Wallace was confronted with a federal government demand for statewide school desegregation Friday as he prepared to open his presidential campaign.

The Justice Department asked a three-judge federal court to outlaw racial segregation in Alabama's public school system and, at the same time, to prohibit Wallace from interfering.

The governor withheld immediate comment.

He went ahead meanwhile with plans to fly to Wisconsin next week to start campaigning in that state's Democratic presidential primary. He qualified last week to run as a champion of states' rights and a militant foe of integration.

The Justice Department request for "affirmative steps" to eliminate Alabama's duel school system for white and Negro pupils came in briefs filed with the three-judge court, which has under consideration a desegregation suit filed earlier by Negro attorneys.

The judges heard testimony two weeks ago, then gave opposing attorneys additional time to submit written briefs. No ruling is likely until after the April 13 deadline for receiving the briefs.

In addition to statewide desegregation, the Justice Department asked the court to:

—Hand down an injunction prohibiting Wallace from interfering with court-ordered desegregation anywhere in Alabama. The governor has used state troopers in the past to delay the enrollment of Negroes in white schools.

—Rule that Alabama's school placement law has been administered illegally because, the governor said, local boards use racial criteria in enforcing the law.

—Prohibit the use of state funds as tuition grants for white students who attend private schools rather than go to public schools with Negroes.

The placement law, which gives city and county boards almost unlimited authority to assign pupils, has been held constitutional on its face by the Supreme Court. But that decision said the law could be thrown out if found to be unfairly administered.

The pending federal desegregaiton grew out of the action of Wallace and other members of the State Board of Education in ordering desegregated Tuskegee High School closed.

Poverty And The Draft

Advisers in the Democratic administration have recommended that President Johnson, lower the age for registering for the draft. This has nothing to do with international tensions and the "cold war," but is rather tied in with the domestic "war on poverty" as announced by the administration.

Current draft calls are mainly for young men in the 22-23 year age bracket. But with registrations called for sooner, it appears there is a move to take into the military service some who have just turned 18.

It is believed that this might give the "war on poverty" programs a chance to get an early start in rehabilitating needy youths and school dropouts.

The White House is concerned that such reports will be interpreted as a move to speed up induction into the military service. When word reached the President that a reduction in the draft age from 18 to 17 was being talked, press secretary Pierre Salinger said: "This is totally false. It has not been considered."

At the same time, a White House source reportedly said the new age for registration for the draft had not been decided—it might be 16, 17 or 17½—but that in no event would anyone be inducted into the armed forces before reaching the present draft age of 18.

Under the existing program, those who fail pre-induction examinations on mental or educational grounds are referred to local offices of the Public Employment Service for counseling and testing. From there they go on to available jobs, training programs, or adult education.

The "antipoverty" recommendations would go two steps farther. By lowering the registration age, as pointed out above, those who need help would be pinpointed from six months to two years sooner than under the regulations which go into effect July 1.

And those who fail to measure up on mental or educational grounds would be given a chance for a special hurry-up training program in special work schools.

Selective Service Director General Lewis B. Hershey proposed last month that young men who fail the pre-induction tests be drafted anyway and placed under military discipline while undergoing rehabilitation training.

This might prove to be the only tangible solution to the problem as it applies to school dropouts and those who are otherwise not inclined to complete basic education on their own.

But we don't think General Hershey's proposal will get very far during an election year. Thus far, most of the proposals from the administration point toward additional money to be spent on economically depressed areas and individuals. But Hershey's suggestion to "crack the whip" on school dropouts calls for military discipline to counter laziness and lack of incentive. This just isn't done where new welfare state principles appear on the scene for each election year.

Instead, there is talk of a new federal agency—probably to bear the name "National Opportunity Administration" — which will be created to coordinate the war against poverty.

President Johnson has also sent a message to Congress designed to reduce unemployment and to "prepare all Americans for better jobs."

This is a glowing prospect as 1964 rolls into the last month of its first quarter. But the glow seems directed towards the votes which will be cast in the last quarter of the year rather than at a stable solution for several age-old problems.

Political Gimmick

Certain programs circulate through Congress under differing names, so small wonder the people become confused as to what they're "for" or "against."

Medical care for the aged programs, to be paid for out of the Social Security taxes of younger wage earners, have met several defeats in Congress. Not long ago, such a bill was designated as the King-Anderson proposal.

Later, under the auspices of Aime J. Forand, a former House member who became chairman and chief lobbyist for the National Council of Senior Citizens for Health Care Through Social Security, it was renamed the Kennedy health care plan.

This year, it's back again under the short and familiar title, Medicare. This is the name which has kept the record straight, for the King-Anderson and the Forand bills have been referred to by that code word.

Again, it's the same political football of the liberal planners. The late President Kennedy made use of such a proposal during his campaign in 1960. He discussed Medicare while sitting with an elderly couple on a front porch. Later, it was announced the man really carried health insurance with a private company.

Medicare was defeated in the Senate in 1960 and again in 1962. It has never escaped the House Ways and Means Committee on that side of Congress.

But like the legend of the phony nickel, it keeps turning up. On the surface, it appears to offer something—to fill a need. And for that reason, the politicians won't let it die.

The plan to include medical care for elderly and indigent persons to the Social Security tax is purely political. Right now, there is a more sensible and more responsible program—the Kerr-Mills Act—already in use in 40 of the 50 states.

This act calls for cooperation and administration on the parts of the individual states, which is the reason some states have not chosen to go along with the idea. This is as it should be.

Kerr-Mills requires that states match the federal funds involved. After this, the person or persons involved must give statements as to their ownership of personal and real property. If they are really in need, care is forthcoming.

In typical socialistic reckoning, the Medicare proposals want to eliminate the step where the person has to prove his condition of need. But in so doing, such a measure would open the door to federal control of hospitals, nursing and the practice of medicine.

Technically, the backers of Medicare are correct when they say the program is not socialized medicine. But it is a big step in that direction. It is a flying wedge which would lead the country closer to just that.

Not only the medical profession would suffer, but so would the taxpaying public as well as the very persons supposedly aided by Medicare.

In the first place, wage earners under 65 would pay spiraling Social Security taxes right along with federal income taxes. This segment of society would receive no federally sponsored medical assistance.

Elderly people in need of help to pay medical bills would also be fooled. Medicare simply softens the blow by absorbing some hospital bills. It has never yet proposed a reduction in payments to doctors.

If experiences in other countries may serve as guidelines, we may conclude that more of the indigent tend to seek charity hospitalization for minor ills, thus increasing hospital costs and creating an ever greater need for hospital bed space. This could add a growing building program with the program where the need never existed before.

Legal Entry Of Burton, Other Actors Questioned

The smoldering controversy over actor Richard Burton's eligibility under the immigration laws to enter the U. S. is spreading to include his director and other members of the cast.

Representative Michael Feighan, D.-O., chairman of the House Judiciary Sub-committee on Immigration, is challenging the "admissibility" of Sir John Gielgud, the director, and other alien members of the Shakespearean cast on morals charges.

According to the records of Feighan's Immigration Subcommittee, Gielgud was convicted on October 22, 1953, in the West London Magistrate's Court, on the charge of "importuning male persons for immoral purposes." The evidence involved a 12-year old boy. Gielgud was convicted and fined 10 pounds.

DESPITE THIS record, Feighan has ascertained that the State Department granted Gielgud a "waiver" to enter the U. S. to direct a production of "Hamlet" on Broadway next month. Burton is the star in the play.

Secretary Rusk approved this "waiver" on the recommendation of Abba Schwartz, controversial head of the Bureau of Security & Consular Affairs.

Attorney General Robert Kennedy is being bluntly asked by Feighan to revoke Gielgud's "waiver." Feighan has made this demand in a formal letter and in several phone calls citing the morals conviction.

Because of the conviction, the "waiver" is essential for Gielgud to enter the U. S. under the immigration laws. He is now in Canada directing the "Hamlet" cast. The play is scheduled to open in New York April 8, for a 12-week run that reportedly is already sold out.

Feighan's militant challenges includes other alien members of the cast. He wants the Immigration Service to thoroughly investigate them on the ground his committee has information indicating "inadmissability" for moral reasons.

SO FAR Feighan has been given the run-around by the Attorney General.

Kennedy has ducked both Feighan's "waiver" revocation demand and a meeting with him to discuss the matter.

Despite Feighan's personal letter and phone calls, he has been unable to arrange a conference with Kennedy on this explosive issue. The latter's assistants have told Feighan the Attorney General is too busy making speeches about juvenile deliquency.

They explained that Kennedy has a "tight schedule" of out-of-town addresses this month in his drive against juvenile delinquency.

To Feighan this doesn't make sense. He is unable to understand why the government should spend millions combatting juvenile delinquency when top officials of the State and Defense Departments grant visa "waivers" to aliens convicted of morals charges involving minors.

Inquiry by Feighan's committee has established that Gielgud's "waiver" was approved by Secretary Rusk after a "routine review" by Schwartz's bureau. All the records on this case are before Kennedy, but aides have told Feighan he "hasn't had the time to make a personal review." They were unable to indicate when Kennedy would get around to the matter.

Meanwhile, immigration authorities have reported that Gielgud used his "waiver" to come to New York last week to discuss his play with theater officials.

ABBA SCHWARTZ, head of the Consular Bureau, who recommended the "waiver," is under fire by the House Committee on Un-American Activities. It is investigating charges he approved a visa for a Japanese who is a member of the Communist Party in his country.

Schwartz has long been under attack on Capitol Hill. The Senate Internal Security Committee, headed by Senator James Eastland, D-Mass., has grilled him several times.

Feighan has the unanimous backing of his committee on this issue. He is making no bones of his determination to summon both Secretary Rusk and Attorney General Kennedy for questioning if actor Burton and director Gielgud are permitted to enter the U. S.

"The law is the law, and I intend to see it enforced without fear or favor," Feighan told his committee. He was heartily assured they are fully behind him.

A KEY background figure in that highly organized and well-financed New Hampshire write-in drive for Attorney General Kennedy was a close partisan of his — Paul Corbin, Wisconsinite and former staff member of the Democratic National Committee.

In fact, there apparently was a direct connection between Corbin's backstage operations in New Hampshire and his sudden departure from the National Committee. It was after this that he appeared in New Hampshire to spark-plug the campaign for a big-write-in vote for "Bobby" Kennedy.

As committee insiders are relating the story, following is what happened:

National Chairman John Bailey was phoned by the White House and asked, "Do you know of one good reason why Corbin should be on the committee's staff? Think it over, and give us your answer by 9 o'clock tomorrow morning."

"I can give you the answer right away," replied Bailey. "I don't have to wait until tomorrow morning. I've been waiting for this word for a long time. I've wanted to get rid of Corbin for months. He was put on our staff by the Attorney General, and that's the only reason he has been here.

"AS FAR AS I'm concerned he's through today. If that's agreeable, I'll tell him that right away."

"That entirely agreeable," was the enthusiastic reply.

Bailey lost no time in telling Corbin he was through.

Shortly thereafter, Corbin appeared in New Hampshire and began firing up the write-in drive for his long-time mentor and patron, "Bobby" Kennedy.

Age Doesn't Set That Old Feeling

Many persons think and live by the calendar. Each birthday is another milestone on the road to oblivion.

Now, it's all right to realize that life is circumscribed, that we're here only for 70 to 100 years; but it's something else again to think and act like an oldster because the calendar says so. So many think that because they are over 40 they're not supoposed to feel well. Consider this letter:

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: My husband is 53 years old and I am 47. Seldom are we sick but neither of us feels real good.

MY HUSBAND works hard every day. He says we're not supposed to feel good at our age. I don't agree with him. I think everyone should feel comfortable unless there is something really the matter.

Take myself. I don't feel good. Although I get plenty of rest I get tired and fall into a chair completely exhausted, my whole body quivering, my legs weak and my chest thumping.

I have everything to live for. My husband and I are still in love. The house we built years ago is paid for. We have wonderful neighbors and fine children, who are married.

Should I ignore my tiredness and do what my husband says, forget about it? Ought the facts that I am 47 make me surrender to these tired feelings and accept them as part and parcel of my age? — Mrs. C.

MAY NEED MEDICINE

Comment: I agree. Don't listen to your husband. There are many causes of fatigue like yours: from tension to something more serious. Therefore, treat yourself to a medical examination.

All you may need is a tranquilizer or a little iron. Perhaps something more. The main thing is not to believe that you're old enough to feel bad. If you were 90 I'd also tell you not to take it lying down.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: During the winter months when storm windows and doors are up I hear many people say they air the house early in the morning when the air is freshest. I air my house in early afternoon because I am under the impression that sunlight purifies the air. If so, why isn't it better to open doors and windows after the sun has been up a few hours? Or doesn't it make any difference? — Mrs. B

Comment: Morning air, afternoon air, night air—no difference.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I am 36 years old and had my first baby by Cesarean a few months ago. During the past month my hair has been falling out. Can you tell me what can be done about it?—Mrs. P.

Comment: In the first place, it isn't the Cesarean itself that is the cause. Loss of hair a few months afer normal delivery is not uncommon. We don't know the exact cause. There's nothing that really helps except being patient and accepting the fact that the hair usually grows back in within a few months.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: My doctor reads your column every day so please don't sign my name. I don't want him to know that I'm taking penicillin for ordinary colds. He'd bawl me out, but good! Don't you think penicillin tablets are all right to use for a cold? — Mrs. X.

Dear Mrs. X's Doctor: I hope you guess which one of your patients is Mrs. X so you can do what she thinks you will do if you discover her.

New Fighter Plane At Opportune Time

When President Johnson suddenly told the press that the United States had developed a 2,000 miles per hour "interceptor," there was considerable comment in Congress and among the press corps. What was behind the timing?

The president is an astute man, and obviously there was an important reason. The story can now be told without violating security.

To get to the real cause of Mr. Johnson's "surprise" announcement, it is necessary to go back to Capitol Hill. Senators and Representatives entrusted with defense matters have, for several years, been expressing their concern over the determination of Defense Secretary Robert McNamara to scrap the Strategic Air Command. Production of manned bombers has been stopped so that we will have not a single SAC B-47, B-52, or B-58 in the air by 1969. New weapons systems for the Air Force have been systematically "scrubbed" by Mr. McNamara's computer-toters.

Though Congress appropriated funds for the development and the production of the supersonic B-70 and its cousin, the RS-70, Secretary McNamara refused to spend the money. In fact, no matter what anyone said, he made it clear that he was the boss.

BUT CONGRESS began showing that it was ready to fight back. Senator Goldwater's charges about the unreliability of missiles were nothing new. They had been made by top-ranking military and civilian experts for a long time. Senator Goldwater merely gave them currency. And here was considerable response on the Hill.

The Administration knew that it had a fight on its hands — that this time no amount of sweet talking could stop Congress from making the facts known to the voters. It was necessary, therefore, to show that progress was being made in the manned bomber field. This would reassure the public and forestall congressional action.

The headline - grabbing announcement of the A-11, a "mystery" plane, followed. It was described as an "interceptor." Just why the U.S. needed a 2,000 m.p.h. interceptor at a time when — to hear Mr. McNamara tell it — the bomber was obsolete is a question no one bothered to ask. Defense Department flacks, however, buzzed it about that the "new" plane would make the B-70 unnecessary and that it would take care of the deficiencies which daily weaken the Strategic Air Command.

ALL OF this was myth. The A-11 and the B-70 have nothing in common. The A-11 is not even an "interceptor" as we were told. It is a faster, better reconnaissance plane designed to take over where the U-2 left off. Given its speed and altitude, it can evade any known anti-aircraft ground-to-air missiles.

These facts have been made public by Aviation Week, an authoritative journal which was aware of the existence of the A-11 for over a year. Aviation Week notes that the A-11 was designed by the same man who created the U-2. The plane has flown repeated sorties over Communist countries and has remained unscathed.

As a reconnaissance plane, the A-11 is one the Air Force can be proud of. That the K- and J Administration sent it on missions over Communist territory is also to its credit — although I can recall the agonized outcry of the Democrats when the U-2 was shot down. "Spying," they said. It was a dirty Republican activity, they implied. And President Eisenhower promised that nary a U-2 would ever be sent again over Red territory.

THE A-11 is no substitute for the B-70. And it solves none of our defense problems. The Strategic Air Command is still being liquidated by a stubborn Defense Secretary. The Defense Department, in the name of Secretary McNamara, has already announced that the third B-70 prototype will not be produced. The "surprise" announcement of the A-11 has done its Madison Avenue job. The public has been lulled. Is Congress asleep, too?

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.

European Press 'Clears' Oswald

At Geneva yesterday a Very Famous Englishman was expatiating at some length on all the reasons why it is impossible for an astute man to believe that Lee Harvey Oswald killed Kennedy, or that the assassination was other than the work of a conspiracy of at least several persons. Since the gentleman is a renowed Liberal, I thought to twit him by saying, "Your mode of reasoning is very much like that of the John Birch Society." Without dropping a conversation semi-quaver (I should add that his timing is world-famous), he replied darkly, "Yes, I have no doubt the John Birch Society had something to do with it."

THE OBSESSION, in other words, was so much in command of him that he simply could not understand my point: that the kind of thinking he was indulging is the kind one indulges when writing books like The Politician, whose denouement is that Eisenhower was a member of the Communist Party. And not only my acquaintance in Geneva, but seemingly all of Europe has, as they say, gone ape on the theory that what actually happened at Dallas is something very different from what the world is being led to believe; that Earl Warren has been selected to preserve the Establishment's script, and that almost certainly what lies behind it all is the existence of an anarchic-fascist conspiracy.

L'Express, for instance, which is a sort of semi-sick Leftist weekly in Paris, in which very flashy writers register their designs on humankind, is halfway through the serialization of a most elaborate treatment of the Dallas story in which, after the third installment, it is already established that a) JFK was not shot by Oswald, but by someone lying under the overpass towards which the presidential car was headed; b) someone in the Dallas police force was in cahoots with Oswald, who was merely an accomplice, and let him slip out of the building even after the police cordon was tight; c) someone in the Dallas police force then released a description of Oswald, which was a signal to accomplice Tippitt to shoot down Oswald, in the process of which he inadvertently got shot himself; and d) Ruby another accomplice, was told to rub out Oswald before he talked. The assassination, then according to this story, was principally an operation of Dallas policemen.

I GIVE you an example of the ease with which stories spread in this sophisticated corner of the world, where so much fun is had at the expense of American provincialism. Mr. Mark Lane is a New York attorney and Leftist who has adopted the Oswald cause as his very own. He is willing to sacrifice even his cherished privacy to see that posthumous justice is done; finally talked the Warren Commission into granting him a hearing last week, at the end of which the president of the American Bar Association, who has been designated to defend Oswald's interests officially before the Warren Commission, told Lane that all he had told the court was in effect a bunch of drivel that had "already been in the newspapers."

ONE OF the things Lane had said was that he had been "informed" that eight days before the assassination, Tippitt, Oswald and Weissman (who had taken out the anti-Kennedy ad in the Dallas News on November 22) had been seen together at Ruby's nightclub. Now there is not a shred of evidence that any such meeting took place: but behold how the item is treated in Le Figaro, a respected Paris daily which has long since been wondering how come Tippitt spotted Oswald in the first place. "Here, then, is a piece of news that gives plausibility to a rumor, already old, but which last night was officialized on television. CBS has stated that a witness has just now declared to the Warren Commission that eight days before the assassination of the President, a mysterious reunion took place at the Carousel, one of Ruby's cabarets. Three men took part in it: Oswald, Tippitt, and Mr. Weissman . . ."

AND SO an unsubstantiated rumor, put forward by a self-promoting Leftist, becomes an official statement on the basis of which Europe continues to build its fantasies. It is especially appalling, under the circumstances, that Mr. Warren should have made those remarks to the effect that not in our lifetime would we know some of the things Warren has found out. It is that kind of melodramatic pish-posh that encourages the mania that is overcoming Europe, beginning, as always, with the intellectuals.

Medical care for the aged programs, to be paid for out of the Social Security taxes of younger wage earners, have met several defeats in Congress. Not long ago, such a bill was designated as the King-Anderson proposal.

Later, under the auspices of Aime J. Forand, a former House member who became chairman and chief lobbyist for the National Council of Senior Citizens for Health Care Through Social Security, it was renamed the Kennedy health care plan.

This year, it's back again under the short and familiar title, Medicare. This is the name which has kept the record straight, for the King-Anderson and the Forand bills have been referred to by that code word.

Again, it's the same political football of the liberal planners. The late President Kennedy made use of such a proposal during his campaign in 1960. He discussed Medicare while sitting with an elderly couple on a front porch. Later, it was announced the man really carried health insurance with a private company.

Medicare was defeated in the Senate in 1960 and again in 1962. It has never escaped the House Ways and Means Committee on that side of Congress.

But like the legend of the phony nickel, it keeps turning up. On the surface, it appears to offer something—to fill a need. And for that reason, the politicians won't let it die.

The plan to include medical care for elderly and indigent persons to the Social Security tax is purely political. Right now, there is a more sensible and more responsible program—the Kerr-Mills Act—already in use in 40 of the 50 states.

This act calls for cooperation and administration on the parts of the individual states, which is the reason some states have not chosen to go along with the idea. This is as it should be.

Kerr-Mills requires that states match the federal funds involved. After this, the person or persons involved must give statements as to their ownership of personal and real property. If they are really in need, care is forthcoming.

In typical socialistic reckoning, the Medicare proposals want to eliminate the step where the person has to prove his condition of need. But in so doing, such a measure would open the door to federal control of hospitals, nursing and the practice of medicine.

Technically, the backers of Medicare are correct when they say the program is not socialized medicine. But it is a big step in that direction. It is a flying wedge which would lead the country closer to just that.

Not only the medical profession would suffer, but so would the taxpaying public as well as the very persons supposedly aided by Medicare.

In the first place, wage earners under 65 would pay spiraling Social Security taxes right along with federal income taxes. This segment of society would receive no federally sponsored medical assistance.

Elderly people in need of help to pay medical bills would also be fooled. Medicare simply softens the blow by absorbing some hospital bills. It has never yet proposed a reduction in payments to doctors.

If experiences in other countries may serve as guidelines, we may conclude that more of the indigent tend to seek charity hospitalization for minor ills, thus increasing hospital costs and creating an ever greater need for hospital bed space. This could add a growing building program with the program where the need never existed before.

Legal Entry Of Burton, Other Actors Questioned

The smoldering controversy over actor Richard Burton's eligibility under the immigration laws to enter the U. S. is spreading to include his director and other members of the cast.

Representative Michael Feighan, D.-O., chairman of the House Judiciary Sub-committee on Immigration, is challenging the "admissibility" of Sir John Gielgud, the director, and other alien members of the Shakespearean cast on morals charges.

According to the records of Feighan's Immigration Subcommittee, Gielgud was convicted on October 22, 1953, in the West London Magistrate's Court, on the charge of "importuning male persons for immoral purposes." The evidence involved a 12-year old boy. Gielgud was convicted and fined 10 pounds.

DESPITE THIS record, Feighan has ascertained that the State Department granted Gielgud a "waiver" to enter the U. S. to direct a production of "Hamlet" on Broadway next month. Burton is the star in the play.

Secretary Rusk approved this "waiver" on the recommendation of Abba Schwartz, controversial head of the Bureau of Security & Consular Affairs.

Attorney General Robert Kennedy is being bluntly asked by Feighan to revoke Gielgud's "waiver." Feighan has made this demand in a formal letter and in several phone calls citing the morals conviction.

Because of the conviction, the "waiver" is essential for Gielgud to enter the U. S. under the immigration laws. He is now in Canada directing the "Hamlet" cast. The play is scheduled to open in New York April 8, for a 12-week run that reportedly is already sold out.

Feighan's militant challenges includes other alien members of the cast. He wants the Immigration Service to thoroughly investigate them on the ground his committee has information indicating "inadmissability" for moral reasons.

SO FAR Feighan has been given the run-around by the Attorney General.

Kennedy has ducked both Feighan's "waiver" revocation demand and a meeting with him to discuss the matter.

Despite Feighan's personal letter and phone calls, he has been unable to arrange a conference with Kennedy on this explosive issue. The latter's assistants have told Feighan the Attorney General is too busy making speeches about juvenile deliquency.

They explained that Kennedy has a "tight schedule" of out-of-town addresses this month in his drive against juvenile delinquency.

To Feighan this doesn't make sense. He is unable to understand why the government should spend millions combatting juvenile delinquency when top officials of the State and Defense Departments grant visa "waivers" to aliens convicted of morals charges involving minors.

Inquiry by Feighan's committee has established that Gielgud's "waiver" was approved by Secretary Rusk after a "routine review" by Schwartz's bureau. All the records on this case are before Kennedy, but aides have told Feighan he "hasn't had the time to make a personal review." They were unable to indicate when Kennedy would get around to the matter.

Meanwhile, immigration authorities have reported that Gielgud used his "waiver" to come to New York last week to discuss his play with theater officials.

ABBA SCHWARTZ, head of the Consular Bureau, who recommended the "waiver," is under fire by the House Committee on Un-American Activities. It is investigating charges he approved a visa for a Japanese who is a member of the Communist Party in his country.

Schwartz has long been under attack on Capitol Hill. The Senate Internal Security Committee, headed by Senator James Eastland, D-Mass., has grilled him several times.

Feighan has the unanimous backing of his committee on this issue. He is making no bones of his determination to summon both Secretary Rusk and Attorney General Kennedy for questioning if actor Burton and director Gielgud are permitted to enter the U. S.

"The law is the law, and I intend to see it enforced without fear or favor," Feighan told his committee. He was heartily assured they are fully behind him.

A KEY background figure in that highly organized and well-financed New Hampshire write-in drive for Attorney General Kennedy was a close partisan of his — Paul Corbin, Wisconsinite and former staff member of the Democratic National Committee.

In fact, there apparently was a direct connection between Corbin's backstage operations in New Hampshire and his sudden departure from the National Committee. It was after this that he appeared in New Hampshire to spark-plug the campaign for a big-write-in vote for "Bobby" Kennedy.

As committee insiders are relating the story, following is what happened:

National Chairman John Bailey was phoned by the White House and asked, "Do you know of one good reason why Corbin should be on the committee's staff? Think it over, and give us your answer by 9 o'clock tomorrow morning."

"I can give you the answer right away," replied Bailey. "I don't have to wait until tomorrow morning. I've been waiting for this word for a long time. I've wanted to get rid of Corbin for months. He was put on our staff by the Attorney General, and that's the only reason he has been here.

"AS FAR AS I'm concerned he's through today. If that's agreeable, I'll tell him that right away."

"That entirely agreeable," was the enthusiastic reply.

Bailey lost no time in telling Corbin he was through.

Shortly thereafter, Corbin appeared in New Hampshire and began firing up the write-in drive for his long-time mentor and patron, "Bobby" Kennedy.

Age Doesn't Set That Old Feeling

Many persons think and live by the calendar. Each birthday is another milestone on the road to oblivion.

Now, it's all right to realize that life is circumscribed, that we're here only for 70 to 100 years; but it's something else again to think and act like an oldster because the calendar says so. So many think that because they are over 40 they're not supoposed to feel well. Consider this letter:

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: My husband is 53 years old and I am 47. Seldom are we sick but neither of us feels real good.

MY HUSBAND works hard every day. He says we're not supposed to feel good at our age. I don't agree with him. I think everyone should feel comfortable unless there is something really the matter.

Take myself. I don't feel good. Although I get plenty of rest I get tired and fall into a chair completely exhausted, my whole body quivering, my legs weak and my chest thumping.

I have everything to live for. My husband and I are still in love. The house we built years ago is paid for. We have wonderful neighbors and fine children, who are married.

Should I ignore my tiredness and do what my husband says, forget about it? Ought the facts that I am 47 make me surrender to these tired feelings and accept them as part and parcel of my age? — Mrs. C.

MAY NEED MEDICINE

Comment: I agree. Don't listen to your husband. There are many causes of fatigue like yours: from tension to something more serious. Therefore, treat yourself to a medical examination.

All you may need is a tranquilizer or a little iron. Perhaps something more. The main thing is not to believe that you're old enough to feel bad. If you were 90 I'd also tell you not to take it lying down.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: During the winter months when storm windows and doors are up I hear many people say they air the house early in the morning when the air is freshest. I air my house in early afternoon because I am under the impression that sunlight purifies the air. If so, why isn't it better to open doors and windows after the sun has been up a few hours? Or doesn't it make any difference? — Mrs. B

Comment: Morning air, afternoon air, night air—no difference.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I am 36 years old and had my first baby by Cesarean a few months ago. During the past month my hair has been falling out. Can you tell me what can be done about it?—Mrs. P.

Comment: In the first place, it isn't the Cesarean itself that is the cause. Loss of hair a few months afer normal delivery is not uncommon. We don't know the exact cause. There's nothing that really helps except being patient and accepting the fact that the hair usually grows back in within a few months.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: My doctor reads your column every day so please don't sign my name. I don't want him to know that I'm taking penicillin for ordinary colds. He'd bawl me out, but good! Don't you think penicillin tablets are all right to use for a cold? — Mrs. X.

Dear Mrs. X's Doctor: I hope you guess which one of your patients is Mrs. X so you can do what she thinks you will do if you discover her.

New Fighter Plane At Opportune Time

When President Johnson suddenly told the press that the United States had developed a 2,000 miles per hour "interceptor," there was considerable comment in Congress and among the press corps. What was behind the timing?

The president is an astute man, and obviously there was an important reason. The story can now be told without violating security.

To get to the real cause of Mr. Johnson's "surprise" announcement, it is necessary to go back to Capitol Hill. Senators and Representatives entrusted with defense matters have, for several years, been expressing their concern over the determination of Defense Secretary Robert McNamara to scrap the Strategic Air Command. Production of manned bombers has been stopped so that we will have not a single SAC B-47, B-52, or B-58 in the air by 1969. New weapons systems for the Air Force have been systematically "scrubbed" by Mr. McNamara's computer-toters.

Though Congress appropriated funds for the development and the production of the supersonic B-70 and its cousin, the RS-70, Secretary McNamara refused to spend the money. In fact, no matter what anyone said, he made it clear that he was the boss.

BUT CONGRESS began showing that it was ready to fight back. Senator Goldwater's charges about the unreliability of missiles were nothing new. They had been made by top-ranking military and civilian experts for a long time. Senator Goldwater merely gave them currency. And here was considerable response on the Hill.

The Administration knew that it had a fight on its hands — that this time no amount of sweet talking could stop Congress from making the facts known to the voters. It was necessary, therefore, to show that progress was being made in the manned bomber field. This would reassure the public and forestall congressional action.

The headline - grabbing announcement of the A-11, a "mystery" plane, followed. It was described as an "interceptor." Just why the U.S. needed a 2,000 m.p.h. interceptor at a time when — to hear Mr. McNamara tell it — the bomber was obsolete is a question no one bothered to ask. Defense Department flacks, however, buzzed it about that the "new" plane would make the B-70 unnecessary and that it would take care of the deficiencies which daily weaken the Strategic Air Command.

ALL OF this was myth. The A-11 and the B-70 have nothing in common. The A-11 is not even an "interceptor" as we were told. It is a faster, better reconnaissance plane designed to take over where the U-2 left off. Given its speed and altitude, it can evade any known anti-aircraft ground-to-air missiles.

These facts have been made public by Aviation Week, an authoritative journal which was aware of the existence of the A-11 for over a year. Aviation Week notes that the A-11 was designed by the same man who created the U-2. The plane has flown repeated sorties over Communist countries and has remained unscathed.

As a reconnaissance plane, the A-11 is one the Air Force can be proud of. That the K- and J Administration sent it on missions over Communist territory is also to its credit — although I can recall the agonized outcry of the Democrats when the U-2 was shot down. "Spying," they said. It was a dirty Republican activity, they implied. And President Eisenhower promised that nary a U-2 would ever be sent again over Red territory.

THE A-11 is no substitute for the B-70. And it solves none of our defense problems. The Strategic Air Command is still being liquidated by a stubborn Defense Secretary. The Defense Department, in the name of Secretary McNamara, has already announced that the third B-70 prototype will not be produced. The "surprise" announcement of the A-11 has done its Madison Avenue job. The public has been lulled. Is Congress asleep, too?

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.

European Press 'Clears' Oswald

At Geneva yesterday a Very Famous Englishman was expatiating at some length on all the reasons why it is impossible for an astute man to believe that Lee Harvey Oswald killed Kennedy, or that the assassination was other than the work of a conspiracy of at least several persons. Since the gentleman is a renowed Liberal, I thought to twit him by saying, "Your mode of reasoning is very much like that of the John Birch Society." Without dropping a conversation semi-quaver (I should add that his timing is world-famous), he replied darkly, "Yes, I have no doubt the John Birch Society had something to do with it."

THE OBSESSION, in other words, was so much in command of him that he simply could not understand my point: that the kind of thinking he was indulging is the kind one indulges when writing books like The Politician, whose denouement is that Eisenhower was a member of the Communist Party. And not only my acquaintance in Geneva, but seemingly all of Europe has, as they say, gone ape on the theory that what actually happened at Dallas is something very different from what the world is being led to believe; that Earl Warren has been selected to preserve the Establishment's script, and that almost certainly what lies behind it all is the existence of an anarchic-fascist conspiracy.

L'Express, for instance, which is a sort of semi-sick Leftist weekly in Paris, in which very flashy writers register their designs on humankind, is halfway through the serialization of a most elaborate treatment of the Dallas story in which, after the third installment, it is already established that a) JFK was not shot by Oswald, but by someone lying under the overpass towards which the presidential car was headed; b) someone in the Dallas police force was in cahoots with Oswald, who was merely an accomplice, and let him slip out of the building even after the police cordon was tight; c) someone in the Dallas police force then released a description of Oswald, which was a signal to accomplice Tippitt to shoot down Oswald, in the process of which he inadvertently got shot himself; and d) Ruby another accomplice, was told to rub out Oswald before he talked. The assassination, then according to this story, was principally an operation of Dallas policemen.

I GIVE you an example of the ease with which stories spread in this sophisticated corner of the world, where so much fun is had at the expense of American provincialism. Mr. Mark Lane is a New York attorney and Leftist who has adopted the Oswald cause as his very own. He is willing to sacrifice even his cherished privacy to see that posthumous justice is done; finally talked the Warren Commission into granting him a hearing last week, at the end of which the president of the American Bar Association, who has been designated to defend Oswald's interests officially before the Warren Commission, told Lane that all he had told the court was in effect a bunch of drivel that had "already been in the newspapers."

ONE OF the things Lane had said was that he had been "informed" that eight days before the assassination, Tippitt, Oswald and Weissman (who had taken out the anti-Kennedy ad in the Dallas News on November 22) had been seen together at Ruby's nightclub. Now there is not a shred of evidence that any such meeting took place: but behold how the item is treated in Le Figaro, a respected Paris daily which has long since been wondering how come Tippitt spotted Oswald in the first place. "Here, then, is a piece of news that gives plausibility to a rumor, already old, but which last night was officialized on television. CBS has stated that a witness has just now declared to the Warren Commission that eight days before the assassination of the President, a mysterious reunion took place at the Carousel, one of Ruby's cabarets. Three men took part in it: Oswald, Tippitt, and Mr. Weissman . . ."

AND SO an unsubstantiated rumor, put forward by a self-promoting Leftist, becomes an official statement on the basis of which Europe continues to build its fantasies. It is especially appalling, under the circumstances, that Mr. Warren should have made those remarks to the effect that not in our lifetime would we know some of the things Warren has found out. It is that kind of melodramatic pish-posh that encourages the mania that is overcoming Europe, beginning, as always, with the intellectuals.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

JOTTINGS IN PENCIL. . . Joe DiMaggio's latest flame is a Miami beauty named Ginger Ultman — described by enthralled eyewitnesses as "a real knockout" and also as a look-alike for Marilyn Monroe. . . Playwright Edward Albee and Jack Warner have met about the screen version of "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?", and they put in long distance calls to Rosalind Russell in Boston to ask her to consider doing the part originated on Broadway by Uta Hagen. Roz was in New England accepting the Harvard "Hasty Pudding" award . . . Sandy Dennis, the cute star of "Any Wednesday," can be found almost any Wednesday, Thursday or Friday night with actor Jerry O'Loughran. Their usual rendezvous is a corner table at Harold's Show Spot.

James Brown, one of the teenage record favorites who will sing in the Paramount Theatre stage show during the Easter holidays is a secret bridegroom. Last November he married Yvonne Fair, who used to vocalize in his touring troupe . . . Former governor Robert Meyner of New Jersey is likely to pop up soon with an important job on President Johnson's team. President Kennedy never got the Meyner message, but the ex-gov is due for his reward because LBJ hasn't forgotten his loyalty at the 1960 Democratic convention.

An internationally famous millionaire is getting skittish now that his wedding day appears to be approaching — or is it? The bride-to-be has been ready and eager for some time, and the odds are on her to rope her man, but the prospect doesn't seem to be making him joyful. In fact, he appears to be trying to win the national open drinking championship. Once before, when he had second thoughts about the romance, he tried to end the relationship by having an intermediary give the lady a large sum of money as a "going away" present. She accepted the loot from the chum, a well-known cafe society figure. And a few weeks later the Romeo had a few drinks, grew sentimental, and called her on the telephone. At this stage of the game, it would take everything but federal troops to remove her from his scene.

Basketball star Wilt Chamberlain is learning — the hard way — about the pitfalls of the nightclub business. Wilt the Stilt's Los Angeles cafe (Basin Street West, no relation to New York's Basin Street East) was just slapped with a court order by Woody Herman, who claims he is due $6,000 for playing a band date there . . . Choreographer - director Gower Champion is shopping for an apartment in Manhattan — something with about 14 rooms will do.

Publisher Samuel Tanker has fooled the skeptics by making his springtly "Short Story International" into a solid success in only six months. It's the first new magazine to click big since TV Guide, and it prints literature, so maybe there's still hope for the written word as a source of entertainment . . . All kinds of creditors have made claims against the estate of the late Dinah Washington. The suits will probably amount to about $120,000 . . . Carolyn Jones, considering several offers to do a Broadway musical, is arranging for vocal coaching from Carlo Menotti. He'll fly to the Coast to help her get her pipes in pitch.

Experts at off-track and off-everything betting say that without fanfare, police Commissioner Murphy has done the best job in history of stamping out big-time gambling in New York. As of right now, there isn't one really important bookmaking office operating in the city . . . Multi - millionaire Woolworth Donahue and Chicago TV beauty Mary Hartline look like a promising romance . . . Princess Soraya, still making her first something to offer besides her fame as the former Empress of Iran. Dino di Laurentiis will star her in another flicker the minute this one is finished; he's negotiating with Jack Kelly of the "Maverick" video series to play her leading man.

There was quite a brawl at Shepheard's the other morning when a chap said to the occupant of a nearby table, "How dare you use language like that in front of my wife?" By the time the fists stopped flying, the rough - language user looked like Sonny Liston at the end of the sixth round . . . "Hello, Dolly!" is now RCA-Victor's top show album seller, so naturally the discery is dangling a lovely fat contract in front of Carol Channing's baby blues.

Two Louisiana corporations dealing in investments and loans are defendants in a Wage-Hour suit filed in the United States District Court at Alexandria.

The complaint by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz names Gulfco Investment Group, Inc., and Gulfco Finance Company of West Monroe, Inc., doing business as Gulfco Finance Company of West Monroe. The former operates a number of small loan firms in Louisiana and maintains its principal office at Marksville.

The suit alleges that the defendants are in violation of the minimum wage, overtime pay and record - keeping requirements of the Fair Labor Standards Act and asks that they be enjoined from such violations in the future.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

MEDICAL BROWSING

Necessity is the mother of invention. A new egg was introduced in Salt Lake City that contains twice as much polyunsaturated fats as does an ordinary egg. This was accomplished, according to Medical World News, by feeding hens a special diet that increases the proportion of this type of fat in the yoke.

This should be good news for the egg lover because increasing the polyunsaturated content means these eggs can be included in a low fat diet because of coronary heat disease. The eggs are available in grade AA, extra large, large and medium sizes.

The oldest prescription in the world is in the museum of the University of Pennsylvania. According to Dr. Donald G. Cooley, author of The Science Book of Modern Medicines, it is a clay tablet approximately the size of a postcard. A Babylonian physician pricked it out in cuneiform writing and sent it to a kiln instead of a pharmacist. The tablet lay buried in Iraq for 40 centuries until it was unearthed by archeologists.

It reads: "Purify and pulverize the skin of a water snake. Pour water over it and over the amamashdubkaskal plant, the root of myrtle, pulverized albali, barley, powedered fir resin, the skin of the kushippu bird. Boil; let the mixture's water be poured off. Wash the ailing organ with water; rub tree oil on it; let shaki be added."

There is some question in my mind whether this is a medical prescription. The author may have been a cook instead of a physician because it could be a recipe for a salad dressing or a gourmet's delight. On the other hand, physicians are notorious for poor handwriting and for using big words. Jawbreakers such as amamashdubkaskal beat anything we have today.

WANTS MORE ENERGY

C.A.V. writes: The only time I'm full of vim is the day before my period. I know no one is a fireball all the time but I would like to have the pep to enjoy my work for more than a day a month. Have you any suggestions?

REPLY

A tonic, such as the vitamin B complex, might help if you are otherwise healthy and your metabolism is normal. Send stamped self - addressed envelope for leaflet or fatigue. Several origins of lack of energy are discussed in this leaflet.

SURGERY NOT ADVISED

J.J. writes: Will plastic surgery eliminate acne scars and dilated veins on the face?

REPLY

In plastic surgery the skin is stretched to eliminate sagging and wrinkles but scars and dilated veins remain. The scars can be removed via planing with a wire brush but it is better to let the tiny veins alone. They can be covered with cosmetics.

RED EYEBALLS

R.F.S. writes: How can I get rid of bloodshot eyes?

REPLY

The eyeballs become bloodshot when infection occurs or they are irritated by rubbing, dust, smoke, foreign bodies, or a misdirected lash. Refractive errors and allergy also may be responsible as well as overindulgence in alcohol.

ADENOIDS AND ALLERGY

C.Z. writes: Will removal of the adenoids in a child with various allergies increase the chance of his developing hay fever later in life?

REPLY

No. On the other hand, enlarged adenoids might aggravate hay fever, should it develop later in life.

Tech Professor To Participate In Symposium

RUSTON (Special) — Charles A. Killgore, professor of chemical engineering and director of the Louisiana Tech Nuclear Center, has been designated by the American Society for Engineering Education as one of 30 persons to participate in a "Symposium on Engineering with Nuclear Explosives," at the University of California, April 21-23.

Included will be a trip to the Nevada Test Site on April 24.

Killgore was chosen as one of 143 applicants from 99 engineering colleges in 43 states and the District of Columbia. The symposium involves the board aspects of converting nuclear energy to commercial purposes. It is now emerging as economically competitive with conventional sources of power.

Tech's Nuclear Center, with its instrumentation and equipment, encompasses a radioisotopes counting laboratory, a radiochemical laboratory and a subscritical nuclear reactor. In addition to the more than $60,000 worth of instrumentation and equipment, the Center has on loan from the United States Atomic Energy Commission over 5,000 pounds of natural uranium metal valued at $100,000. The Tech Nuclear Center provides nuclear training to the students of this area and, in addition, is aiding Civil Defense planning and radioactive fallout contamination reporting.

Tech has the capability of establishing a new technical company providing services in the field of applied nucleonics and protection against radiation hazards. It could be an asset in attracting space age and nuclear industries to the area.

The increasing use of radioactive isotopes and radiation generators has created a need for services relating to the health and safety of both the general public and those people who work with radiation.

Tech's additional capabilities are: provision of commercial assistance in the control of radioactive materials; provision of safety services to industrial, medical and educational users of X-ray machines, teletherapy units and sealed radioactive sources; and provision of other aids such as analytical radiochemistry, information and surveys on compliance with federal and state licensing regulations, instrument repair and calibration, bioassay and facility design.

ZIP CODE TRAINING

Area Postmasters Attend Meet Here

A group of 46 area postmasters and representatives attended a ZIP Code training conference Friday at the Monroe Post Office.

Ellis Dossey, delivery services Branch, Dallas, Tex., and H. B. Fisher, postal service officer from Shreveport conducted the conference for Northeast Louisiana area postmasters.

The two men explained further progress in postal service through use of ZIP code numbers at the all day meet. They emphasized further implementation of the program, explaining that the new system is making it possible for businesses to pre-sort mail by existing automatic data processing equipment with little, if any additional effort or cost but with great savings in time and expense to the post office department resulting in better delivery of all mail.

ZIP coded mail is also able to by-pass as many as six current hand operations and is laying the ground work for extensive automatic sorting of mail by optical reading equipment in the future.

All postmasters were urged to encourage their patrons to use their ZIP Code Number in their return address in order to permit banks, insurance companies, magazine publishers, and utility companies to keep their ZIP-coded mailing lists up to date.

This is the first such conference held by postmasters since the ZIP code program went into effect on a nationwide scale July 1, of last year.

Monroe Postmaster Woodrow Hathorn pointed out that Louisiana was divided into 10 sectional centers for receipt of ZIP coded mail, and that Monroe is one of those centers. He added that all mail coded for Monroe bears the ZIP code number beginning with figures 712 and ending with some other figure, relative to the town or city the mail is bound for. He explained that mail for the northeast portion of the state in the immediately surrounding area is sent to Monroe and then farmed out to the area post offices by carrier.

Persons interested in learning what their ZIP code number is should contact their postoffice and began using the number to implement mailing.

Those attending the meeting Friday include Homer B. Roark, West Monroe; Mrs. Jessie M. Murphy, Simsboro; Mrs. Mary M. Thomas, Spearsville; Mrs. Lois N. Farrar, Lillie; John T. Baldwin Jr., Bernice; Mrs. Jennie Parker, Crowville; James B. Fain, Jonesboro; William L. Bell, Mangham; Mrs. Girtherine E. Lloyd, Grambling; M. O. Aswell, Eros; Austin B. Smith, Rayville; Roy M. water," Rabun expalined. "The primary purpose of this project was for water conservation."

But he said the recreational values of the lake could not be determined, pointing out that property around the lake was selling as high as $5,000 per acre.

Lake D'Arbonne, recently completed by the Department of Public Works, is located in Union and Lincoln at the foot of a drainage basis covering about 1500 square miles.

The lake itself is about 16,000 acres in size.

Rabun also said the commission had appointed a committee to work with the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission on establishing hunting regulations on the lake.

While the lake is being stocked by the wildlife department with fish, it is expected to be a prime area for ducks, Rabun said. In fact, he said, "The lake's full of ducks now. Mallards too."

About 250 blind sites will be available on the lake.

Appointed to the committee, according to Rabun, were chairman Earl Sears, Ruston, Clarence Delaney Jr., Dubach, Harry Preaus, Walter White and Kenneth Kilpatrick, all of Farmerville.

Including public parks, roads and bridges, cost of the lake project is estimated at $7-million.

assurances by Thant that the peace force will soon be in Cyprus and that advance elements are on the way.

It reaffirmed that all U.N. members should refrain from any action likely to worsen the situation in Cyprus or endanger world peace.

That was a restatement of the words in the resolution approved by the council nine days ago authorizing Thant to create the peace force.

Thant opened the council meeting with a declaration that he had appealed to Turkey to show restraint in a situation "fraught with grave responsibilities."

A message to the Turkish government from Thant asked it to "reconsider most urgently its position." He said the U.N. force constitutes "the best hope of emerging from this dangerous crisis."

Orhan Eralp, the Turkish ambassador, denied there was any time limit in Turkey's note to Cyprus which the latter regarded as an ultimatum.

He asserted that thousands of Turkish Cypriots "are living in fear of their lives. The time for talk is past. Let us proceed to action."

He expressed gratification at Thant's word that a U.N. force is being formed and said Turkey would contribute "several hundred thousand dollars" to help pay for the force.

Thant made the statement at an emergency meeting of the U.N. Security Council called to cope with a Turkish threat to invade Cyprus if killing of Turkish Cypriots continues.

continued, "that we remember, that Jack remembered during those three days back in November."

Oswald described himself before his death as a Marxist but there was no apparent evidence that he ever actually was a member of the Communist party.

The trial was delayed for 10 hours Friday by a prolonged argument over the court's charge to the jury, which preceded the summations by both sides.

Testimony ended at midmorning, but it was not until 8:05 p.m. that Judge Joe B. Brown began his 17-minute charge to a jury of eight men and four women. They will decide Ruby's fate in the Nov. 24 slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

Among other things, Judge Brown told the jury it was not to hold against Ruby his failure to take the witness stand during his trial.

With the conclusion of the charge, the state began the first stage of its final arguments in which it seeks the death penalty for Ruby.

Taking turns, the seven lawyers for the defense and state were expected to require more than four hours in summation, after which the case goes to the jury.

Actual deliberations are not expected to begin until this morning.

Defense attorneys took full advantage of their right to question Brown's interpretation of the law before he presented his finished charge to the jury. They filed 24 typewritten pages of objections to the charge as it originally was written.

Most of them were turned down by Brown, before he addressed the jury on criminal case E4010J on the court's docket—the State of Texas vs. Jack Ruby, charged with murder with malice in Oswald's shooting.

As an example of the defense objections, Judge Brown had proposed to instruct the jury to consider "the previous relationship, if any, existing between the accused and the deceased."

ZIP CODE TRAINING

Area Postmasters Attend Meet Here

A group of 46 area postmasters and representatives attended a ZIP Code training conference Friday at the Monroe Post Office.

Ellis Dossey, delivery services Branch, Dallas, Tex., and H. B. Fisher, postal service officer from Shreveport conducted the conference for Northeast Louisiana area postmasters.

The two men explained further progress in postal service through use of ZIP code numbers at the all day meet. They emphasized further implementation of the program, explaining that the new system is making it possible for businesses to pre-sort mail by existing automatic data processing equipment with little, if any additional effort or cost but with great savings in time and expense to the post office department resulting in better delivery of all mail.

ZIP coded mail is also able to by-pass as many as six current hand operations and is laying the ground work for extensive automatic sorting of mail by optical reading equipment in the future.

All postmasters were urged to encourage their patrons to use their ZIP Code Number in their return address in order to permit banks, insurance companies, magazine publishers, and utility companies to keep their ZIP-coded mailing lists up to date.

This is the first such conference held by postmasters since the ZIP code program went into effect on a nationwide scale July 1, of last year.

Monroe Postmaster Woodrow Hathorn pointed out that Louisiana was divided into 10 sectional centers for receipt of ZIP coded mail, and that Monroe is one of those centers. He added that all mail coded for Monroe bears the ZIP code number beginning with figures 712 and ending with some other figure, relative to the town or city the mail is bound for. He explained that mail for the northeast portion of the state in the immediately surrounding area is sent to Monroe and then farmed out to the area post offices by carrier.

Persons interested in learning what their ZIP code number is should contact their postoffice and began using the number to implement mailing.

Those attending the meeting Friday include Homer B. Roark, West Monroe; Mrs. Jessie M. Murphy, Simsboro; Mrs. Mary M. Thomas, Spearsville; Mrs. Lois N. Farrar, Lillie; John T. Baldwin Jr., Bernice; Mrs. Jennie Parker, Crowville; James B. Fain, Jonesboro; William L. Bell, Mangham; Mrs. Girtherine E. Lloyd, Grambling; M. O. Aswell, Eros; Austin B. Smith, Rayville; Roy M. Byrd 1st, West Monroe Places 3rd In Relays

AFTER 4TH STRAIGHT TITLE

Indian Cinder Squad In Shreveport Relays

Northeast State bids for its fourth straight Shreveport Relays championship this afternoon in a track carnival that shapes up as a March Gulf States Conference meet.

Today's meet on the Byrd High School track features the six Gulf States Conference schools with Southeastern — paced by some of the South's finest sprinters — expected to give Northeast its toughest competition.

Other schools entered are Southwestern, Northwestern, Louisiana Tech and McNeese State of the Gulf Statces Conference, plus Stephen F. Austin from Texas.

Northeast first entered the Shreveport Relays in 1961 and has yet to finish outside the winner's circle. Northeast has won this meet by as many as 56½ points and never by less than 4. Two years ago the Indians set a college division scoring record with 112 points.

Last year Northeast scored 97½ points to 59 for runnerup, Southwestern.

Coach Bob Groseclose's team opened its outdoor season last weekend by taking the All-College Meet title in Commerce, Tex., with 75 points, two more than host East Texas State.

Groseclose will rely heavily on an excellent group of hurdlers headed by Dalton LeBlanc and Roger Morgan, a fast corps of quarter-milers, versatile field men such as Tommy Edmonson and Gary Walker and a better than average collection of sprinters.

LeBlanc will run the hurdles outdoors for the first time this year and, provided he has shaken off an old leg injury, he and Morgan should stage a fine race in the highs. The pair will be joined by Fair Park's fine hurdler of last year, Roger Mann, in the highs and by ex-Neville standout Fred Vogel in the intermediates.

John Baker, Cline Averett and Ronnie Fountain give Northeast three-deep strength in the 440 and will team with Doug Constant in the mile relay.

Edmonson has gone 24-2 in the board jump and 14-5 in the vault. He is also a contender in the triple jump. Walker threw the discus 162-10¼ in Commerce and has thrown it farther. Former Byrd weight man Harold Mayes is also a threat in the discus.

Springhill's T o m m y Slack, with a best of 207-3, is the lone Northeast entry in the javelin. He set a neat record at Commerce last Saturday.

Fountain and Constant are the Indian entries in the high jump. Constant has the best height, 6-6, but Fountain has been the Tribe's best here recently.

Jay Goldsmith, Monroe senior, heads the list of Northeast sprinters. He has run a 9.6.

Bill Smith of Haynesville and Dodson's Bill White will be the distance entries.

Goldsmith, Charles McDonald, Morgan and Fountain will run the 440 relay.

Gayland LeBlanc, second in the Shreveport 880 last year, will be back again. He'll be joined by freshmen Jim Bodin and Roger O'Quinn.

Dalton LeBlanc is the defending champion in the high hurdles and the 220, Edmonson won the triple jump and broad jump last year and the Indians 440 and mile relay teams recorded victories.

Tallulah Club Finishes 5th, Fair Park 4th

SHREVEPORT (Special) — West Monroe, sparked by discus victory of Ronnie Tippin, finished third in an 11-team field in the Shreveport Relays here Friday.

The Rebels rolled up 31 points. Byrd of Shreveport won its sixth successive title with 111½ points and Minden took the runner-up spot with 51 points.

Fair Park was fourth with 27, followed by Tallulah with 26, Woodlawn 24, Bossier City 17, Haughton 10, Mansfield 2½, Benton 1, Jesuit 0.

Tippin sailed the discus 141-feet and 11 and ¾ inches. Chuck Crawford finished third in the event with a 139-6 toss. He also took a fourth place in the shot put with a 46-10¼ effort.

The Rebels who made a good showing in the field even earned second and fourth in the javelin, second in the pole vault, and finished fourth and fifth in the long jump. They also picked up a fourth place in the hop-step jump.

Indians Nip West Monroe Club By 4-3

Istrouma's Randy Chapman belted a two-run homer in the fifth inning to insure a 4-3 victory over West Monroe in the first game of a two-day stand Friday afternoon at Confederate Park.

The Baton Rouge Indians were trailing by a run going into the fifth but took over the contest on Chapman's slam plus the Indians' second home run of the day by Richard Cockerham, also in the fifth.

Jamie Barrett's four of the bases in the bottom of the first stanza gave the Rebels' a 1-0 edge. Istrouma evened the count in the top of the fourth but when the Rebels came to bat, Richard Anderson homered to put the hosts back in front.

Relief pitcher Steve White added another Reb run in the sixth but winning pitcher Ed Hartfield clipped West Monroe scoring to three.

Hartfield stayed on the mound all seven innings and allowed West Monroe eight hits and struck out only one. This was his third victory against no losses.

Bo Roberts was charged with the loss to give him a 0-1 record. The moundsman struck out two and gave up six hits.

The clubs take to the field at 2 p.m. again today for the last game.

West Monroe is now 0-2 in its baseball season. The Rebels lost to Ruston for the first loss.

Calhoun Puts Futrell On B All-State Squad

By CHARLES MEYERS
Lake Charles American Press

Accorded top honors on the 1964 Class B All-State basketball team selected by the Louisiana Sportswriters Association were a player who didn't get to display his talent at the state tournament and a coach who did and make good.

Named the outstanding player on a team which featured tremendous balance and all-around ercellence was Kent Andrews of East Beauregard, the lone repeater from last year's first team.

Rounding out the honor unit are James Futrell of Calhoun, Roy Johnson of Plainview, Doug Wilson of Ringgold and Larry Zeringue of St. Joseph of Chauvin.

O. D. West, who instilled a tremendous spirit and hustle into a Plainview team which won the Class B championship, was cited for turning in the state's best coaching job for the second year in succession.

Without the usual abundance of high scorers. (Only Futrell on the first unit averaged 20 points a game), the forte of the 1964 team is its versatility and dexterity in almost every court skill.

And the epitome of this type of player is the slender Andrews, who has led his team to a remarkable 9-15 record over the past two seasons. The complete ball player, the 6-0, 160-pounder is a fine scorer and rebounder.

Johnson and Wilson are two players cut out of the same mold.

Although standing only 5-11, the sturdy Johnson played the pivot for Plainview's state champs. Possessing fine jumping and shooting ability, he averaged 17.1 points a game.

The 6-1, 175-pound Wilson has been a three-year starter for Ringgold's District 2-B champions. Also an able defender, Wilson provided the Redskins with capable ball handling and scored at an 18.1 clip.

Futrell and Zeringue, both juniors with another year of eligibility remaining, coincidentally are the "big men" on the honor unit.

At 6-4 and 175 pounds, Futrell has made life miserable for District 3-B foes for three years now. A star even as a freshman, he is the only junior in history to have made that particular all-district team three times.

The state's leading Class B scorer, Futrell bombed them in at a 26.8 clip and averaged almost 20 rebounds a game.

Zeringue, who towers 6-6 and weighs 195 pounds, was largely responsible for bringing an unheralded St. Joseph team to the state tournament, where he displayed a shotting skill rare in a big man. Zeringue averaged 17.2 points and 18 rebounds a contest.

Comprising a talented second team are Ken Hebert of Iowa, Don Keeley of Fatima, C. W. Strother of Plainview, Jimmy Gill of Mandeville and Peter Gray of Marthaville.

SHACKLE NASH

Ohio Crew Rips Kentucky, 85-69

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Ohio University shackled All-America Cotton Nash and scored a 85-69 upset of fourth - ranked Kentucky in the NCAA Mideast Regional basketball playoffs Friday night.

Defending champion Chicago Loyola met co-champion Michigan in the second game.

Kentucky's Wildcats, seeking an unprecedented fifth NCAA title, were almost completely outplayed from the start by Ohio University's Bobcats, champions of the Mid-American Conference.

With almost ridiculous ease, Don Hilt, Mile Haley, Jerry Jackson and Paul Storey grabbed rebound after rebound off Kentucky's backboard. The Bobcats also did such an effective job of screening the 6-5 Nash away from his own basket that the Wildcat star scored only 10 points.

At one time in the first half, Nash was booed by the crowd as he bounced his own dribble off his knee. Nash had only one basket in the first half and did not score his second until the second half was five minutes old and Kentucky's Southeastern Conference champions trailed 52-36.

Ohio's attack hubbed around the 6-4 Jackson, who scored 25 points, 15 of them in the second half.

Byrd 1st, West Monroe Places 3rd In Relays

AFTER 4TH STRAIGHT TITLE

Indian Cinder Squad In Shreveport Relays

Northeast State bids for its fourth straight Shreveport Relays championship this afternoon in a track carnival that shapes up as a March Gulf States Conference meet.

Today's meet on the Byrd High School track features the six Gulf States Conference schools with Southeastern — paced by some of the South's finest sprinters — expected to give Northeast its toughest competition.

Other schools entered are Southwestern, Northwestern, Louisiana Tech and McNeese State of the Gulf Statees Conference, plus Stephen F. Austin from Texas.

Northeast first entered the Shreveport Relays in 1961 and has yet to finish outside the winner's circle. Northeast has won this meet by as many as 56½ points and never by less than 2½. Two years ago the Indians set a college division scoring record with 112 points.

Last year Northeast scored 97½ points to 59 for runnerup, Southwestern.

Coach Bob Groseclose's team opened its outdoor season last weekend by taking the All-College Meet title in Commerce, Tex., with 75 points, two more than host East Texas State.

Groseclose will rely heavily on an excellent group of hurdlers headed by Dalton LeBlanc and Roger Morgan, a fast corps of quarter-milers, versatile field men such as Tommy Edmonson and Gary Walker and a better than average collection of sprinters.

LeBlanc will run the hurdles outdoors for the first time this year and, provided he has shaken off an old leg injury, he and Morgan should stage a fine race in the highs. The pair will be joined by Fair Park's fine hurdler of last year, Roger Mann, in the highs and by ex-Neville standout Fred Vogel in the intermediates.

John Baker, Cline Averett and Ronnie Fountain give Northeast three-deep strength in the 440 and will team with Doug Constant in the mile relay.

Edmonson has gone 24-2 in the board jump and 14-5 in the vault. He is also a contender in the triple jump. Walker threw the discus 162-10¼ in Commerce and has thrown it farther. Former Byrd weight man Harold Mayes is also a threat in the discus.

Springhill's Tommy Slack, with a best of 207-3, is the lone Northeast entry in the javelin. He set a neat record at Commerce last Saturday.

Fountain and Constant are the Indian entries in the high jump. Constant has the best height, 6-6, but Fountain has been the Tribe's best here recently.

Jay Goldsmith, Monroe senior, heads the list of Northeast sprinters. He has run a 9.6.

Bill Smith of Haynesville and Dodson's Bill White will be the distance entries.

Goldsmith, Charles McDonald, Morgan and Fountain will run the 440 relay.

Gayland LeBlanc, second in the Shreveport 880 last year, will be back again. He'll be joined by freshmen Jim Bodin and Roger O'Quinn.

Dalton LeBlanc is the defending champion in the high hurdles and the 220, Edmonson won the triple jump and broad jump last year and the Indians 440 and mile relay teams recorded victories.

Tallulah Club Finishes 5th, Fair Park 4th

SHREVEPORT (Special) — West Monroe, sparked by discus victory of Ronnie Tippin, finished third in an 11-team field in the Shreveport Relays here Friday.

The Rebels rolled up 31 points. Byrd of Shreveport won its sixth successive title with 111½ points and Minden took the runner-up spot with 51 points.

Fair Park was fourth with 27, followed by Tallulah with 26, Woodlawn 24, Bossier City 17, Haughton 10, Mansfield 2½, Benton 1, Jesuit 0.

Tippin sailed the discus 141-feet and 11 and ¾ inches. Chuck Crawford finished third in the event with a 139-6 toss. He also took a fourth place in the shot put with a 46-10¼ effort.

The Rebels who made a good showing in the field even earned second and fourth in the javelin, second in the pole vault, and finished fourth and fifth in the long jump. They also picked up a fourth place in the hop-step jump.

Van Nolan lost out to a record breaking vault by Bill Rambert of Byrd. The Yellow Jacket soared 12-8 and ¾. Nolan went out after reaching 12-1. Rambery broke the record shared by West Monroe's Paul Hobgood.

West Monroe finished fourth in the 880 yard relay for its best baton race showing.

Tallulah finished fifth in team scoring and got most of its points from quarter miler Jimmy Gill· Gilfoil who earned a third, hurdler Mike Luckett who ran second in the highs and fourth in the lows, and half miler Bill Ziegler and miler Randy Morgan. The two middle distance men bagged fifth places.

Indians Nip West Monroe Club By 4-3

Istrouma's Randy Chapman belted a two-run homer in the fifth inning to insure a 4-3 victory over West Monroe in the first game of a two-day stand Friday afternoon at Confederate Park.

The Baton Rouge Indians were trailing by a run going into the fifth but took over the contest on Chapman's slam plus the Indians' second home run of the day by Richard Cockerham, also in the fifth.

Jamie Barrett's four of the bases in the bottom of the first stanza gave the Rebels' a 1-0 edge. Istrouma evened the count in the top of the fourth but when the Rebels came to bat, Richard Anderson homered to put the hosts back in front.

Relief pitcher Steve White added another Reb run in the sixth but winning pitcher Ed Hartfield clipped West Monroe scoring to three.

Hartfield stayed on the mound all seven innings and allowed West Monroe eight hits and struck out only one. This was his third victory against no losses.

Bo Roberts was charged with the loss to give him a 0-1 record. The moundsman struck out two and gave up six hits.

The clubs take to the field at 2 p.m. again today for the last game.

West Monroe is now 0-2 in its baseball season. The Rebels lost to Ruston for the first loss.

Calhoun Puts Futrell On B All-State Squad

By CHARLES MEYERS
Lake Charles American Press

Accorded top honors on the 1964 Class B All-State basketball team selected by the Louisiana Sportswriters Association were a player who didn't get to display his talent at the state tournament and a coach who did and make good.

Named the outstanding player on a team which featured tremendous balance and all-around ercellence was Kent Andrews of East Beauregard, the lone repeater from last year's first team.

Rounding out the honor unit are James Futrell of Calhoun, Roy Johnson of Plainview, Doug Wilson of Ringgold and Larry Zeringue of St. Joseph of Chauvin.

O. D. West, who instilled a tremendous spirit and hustle into a Plainview team which won the Class B championship, was cited for turning in the state's best coaching job for the second year in succession.

1964 ALL-STATE CLASS B

FIRST TEAM

Player, School	Hgt.	Wgt.	Class
Kent Andrews, East Beauregard	6-0	160	Senior
Roy Johnson, Plainview	5-11	170	Senior
Larry Zeringue, St. Joseph	6-6	195	Junior
James Futrell, Calhoun	6-4	175	Junior
Doug Wilson, Ringgold	6-1	175	Senior

OUTSTANDING PLAYER—Kent Andrews, E. Beauregard

BEST COACHING JOB—O. D. West, Plainview

SECOND TEAM	THIRD TEAM
Ken Hebert, Iowa	Hubert Dupuy, Brusly
Don Keeley, Fatima	Jimmy Weaver, Haughton
C. W. Strother, Plainview	Jimmy Napper, Simsboro
Peter Gray, Marthaville	Walter Allen, Live Oak
Jimmy Gill, Mandeville	Carlo Circello, Melville

Without the usual abundance of high scorers. (Only Futrell on the first unit averaged 20 points a game), the forte of the 1964 team is its versatility and dexterity in almost every court skill.

And the epitome of this type of player is the slender Andrews, who has led his team to a remarkable 9-15 record over the past two seasons. The complete ball player, the 6-0, 160-pounder is a fine scorer and rebounder.

Johnson and Wilson are two players cut out of the same mold.

Although standing only 5-11, the sturdy Johnson played the pivot for Plainview's state champs. Possessing fine jumping and shooting ability, he averaged 17.1 points a game.

The 6-1, 175-pound Wilson has been a three-year starter for Ringgold's District 2-B champions. Also an able defender, Wilson provided the Redskins with capable ball handling and scored at an 18.1 clip.

Futrell and Zeringue, both juniors with another year of eligibility remaining, coincidentally are the "big men" on the honor unit.

At 6-4 and 175 pounds, Futrell has made life miserable for District 3-B foes for three years now. A star even as a freshman, he is the only junior in history to have made that particular all-district team three times.

The state's leading Class B scorer, Futrell bombed them in at a 26.8 clip and averaged almost 20 rebounds a game.

Zeringue, who towers 6-6 and weighs 195 pounds, was largely responsible for bringing an unheralded St. Joseph team to the state tournament, where he displayed a shotting skill rare in a big man. Zeringue averaged 17.2 points and 18 rebounds a contest.

Comprising a talented second team are Ken Hebert of Iowa, Don Keeley of Fatima, C. W. Strother of Plainview, Jimmy Gill of Mandeville and Peter Gray of Marthaville.

SHACKLE NASH

Ohio Crew Rips Kentucky, 85-69

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Ohio University shackled All-America Cotton Nash and scored a 85-69 upset of fourth - ranked Kentucky in the NCAA Mideast Regional basketball playoffs Friday night.

Defending champion Chicago Loyola met co-champion Michigan in the second game.

Kentucky's Wildcats, seeking an unprecedented fifth NCAA title, were almost completely outplayed from the start by Ohio University's Bobcats, champions of the Mid-American Conference.

With almost ridiculous ease, Don Hilt, Mile Haley, Jerry Jackson and Paul Storey grabbed rebound after rebound off Kentucky's backboard. The Bobcats also did such an effective job of screening the 6-5 Nash away from his own basket that the Wildcat star scored only 10 points.

At one time in the first half, Nash was booed by the crowd as he bounced his own dribble off his knee. Nash had only one basket in the first half and did not score his second until the second half was five minutes old and Kentucky's Southeastern Conference champions trailed 52-36.

Ohio's attack hubbed around the 6-4 Jackson, who scored 25 points, 15 of them in the second half.

Interest In Traded Players High

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More than a dozen big league ballplayers sold or traded since the close of last season will be batting and-or pitching for new teams today when Florida's Grapefruit League opens with a seven-game exhibition schedule.

Cleveland, Boston, San Francisco and the Chicago Cubs, based in Arizona, and the Los Angeles Angels, whose training site is Palm Springs, Calif., got off to a week's head star in exhibition play.

Among the players on Florida - based teams who've changed big league uniforms since last season are outfielder Felipe Alou and catcher Ed Bailey, Milwaukee; second baseman Nellie Fox and outfielder Walt Bond, Houston; second baseman Jerry Lumpe and outfielder Don Demeter, Detroit; first baseman Norm Siebern and outfielder Willie Kirkland, Baltimore; pitcher Roger Craig, St. Louis; outfielder George Altman and shortstop Amado Samuel, New York Mets; first baseman Jim Gentile, Kansas City; first baseman Bill Skowron, Washington and catcher Gus Triandos, Philadelphia.

Skowron will be in the starting line-up of the Senators, who meet the Braves at Pompano Beach. Mike Brumley, up from the Pacific Coast League, will catch the offerings of Claude Osteen, Jim Hannan and Carl Bouldin.

The Colts, who face the Phillies at Clearwater, are anxious to see whether Bond, a 6-foot-6 outfielder obtained from Cleveland, can continue his hefty hitting in the exhibition games. He batted .800 in intra-squad games, including a 450-foot homer.

Yogi Berra, seeking to get off to a winning start in his first season as manager, will send three of the New York Yanks' best pitchers against Baltimore at Ft. Lauderdale. His nominees are Whitey Ford, Ralph Terry and Al Downing. Jim Bouton, another starter, is not scheduled to work until next week. He ended a salary squabble Wednesday by signing for $18,000 under threat of a $100-a-day penalty.

The Yanks called up Jack Reed, an outfielder, from their Richmond farm in International League Friday to fill out their roster for the exhibition games. He will be used by the parent club until Archie Moore, a rookie outfielder, is released by the Army later this month.

In other Grapefruit League games today, Minnesota plays Detroit at Lakeland, Pittsburgh meets Kansas City at Bradenton, Cincinnati faces the Chicago White Sox at Sarasota and the Mets go against the Cardinals at St. Petersburg.

The Mets actually jumped the exhibition gun last week with three games in Mexico. This week-end, the champion Los Angeles Dodgers play in Mexico City. They met the Mexico City Reds Friday night and face the Mexico City Reds tonight.

The Arizona-based Cleveland Indians will divide their squad into two units today with one meeting the Cubs at Mesa and the other taking on the Angels at Palm Springs. The Giants play the Red Sox at El Paso, Tex.

Training Camp Briefs

Sanford Hurls Six

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Burly right - hander Jack Sanford pitched six innings for the San Francisco Giants Friday as they maintained their mastery over the Cleveland Indians with a 5-2 exhibition victory.

Sanford gave up only three hits and one run, struck out five and walked three in going longer than any other Giant pitcher this spring. The victory put San Francisco's Cactus League record at 5-1.

Southpaw Jack Kralick was the loser before 2,985 in the new Phoenix Stadium as the Giants collected a pair of runs in the opening inning.

Jose Pagan's double and a pair of sacrifices brought in a second inning run and in the third. Mays doubled down the third base line, advanced on an infield out and scored on Jim Hart's sacrifice fly. The final run scored thanks to three eighth inning walks by Ted Abernathy plus an error.

Gaylord Perry finished after Sanford went out. The only run off Sanford came in the second inning. There could have been more except for a double play.

Max Alvis opened with a double and Sanford walked Bob Chance and John Romano. Fred Whitfield rapped to Hiller at second for the start of a twin killing.

The Giants and Boston Red Sox go to El Paso, Tex., Saturday and Sunday for a two-game series.

Lets In Key Run

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—Bob Duliba's wild pitch enabled rookie Jimmy Stewart to score the winning run in the ninth inning Friday as the Chicago Cubs came from behind to defeat the Los Angeles Angels 6-5.

It was the Cubs' third straight victory and fifth in six spring games.

Trailing 5-3 going into the ninth the Cubs loaded the bases on Lou Holdener's single, a walk to pinch hitter Ellis Burton and a throwing error.

Rookie Billy Ott stroked a two-run single to center to tie the score at 5-5. Another error reloaded the bases before Duliba's wild pitch rolled to the screen as Stewart raced across the plate.

Leo Burke clubbed a three-run homer for Chicago to help erase an early 4-0 Angel lead.

Covington Hitting

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Outfielder Wes Covington hit two doubles Friday but his team lost 4-2 as the Philadelphia Phillies played their final intra-squad game of the spring training season.

The Phillies meet the Houston Colts Saturday and Sunday to open their exhibition season.

Covington's second double came off Jim Bunning, former Detroit right-hander who was making his first appearance in a squad game. It drove home the first of the two third inning runs, the other scoring on an error.

Tony Taylor's steal of home capped a four-run third inning for the winners in the six-inning contest. All of the winners' runs came off John Boozer.

Aparicio Gains

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — John Powell, the Baltimore Orioles 22-year-old left-fielder, has lost 18 pounds in less than two weeks to weigh in at 233. But Baltimore now has another weight problem.

Luis Aparicio, the Bird's veteran shortstop, has picked up seven pounds on his desired 157 playing figure since he reported 12 days ago.

"I play winter ball an' I maybe not work too hard here so far," explained the 29 - year old who has been the American League base stealing champ for the last eight seasons.

"I have pretty good 10-12 days. I eat pretty good. Everything on menu."

"Now I get down to business," said Aparicio after a fly shagging drill while attired in an air - tight rubber reducing suit prescribed by Manager Hank Bauer.

"He say I seven pounds over. He say 'Get it off.' I lost pound a day. I not worried. I get it off."

Jay Still Absent

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds — with pitcher Joey Jay still absent from the spring training camp — held a short batting practice Friday in preparation for the exhibition opener today against the Chicago White Sox.

Manager Fred Hutchinson said he will use three left-handers against the Sox, Joe Nuxhall, Billy McColo and Chet Nichols.

Jey left camp suddenly Thursday for his home in Cincinnati; saying he wanted to take care of some "personal matters." Jay said he would rejoin the team today.

Hutchinson said Jay left without consent, and he indicated he would give him a "stiff fine" when he returns. Jay had a poor season last year, winning seven and losing 18.

Hutchinson said he plans "to rotate his pitchers as quickly as possible." He said he is looking forward to Jay coming back as "he's an important guy if the Reds are to be a pennant threat."

"Jay can make a comeback," Hutchinson said. "He didn't have any arm trouble last year and we'll be depending on him."

Jay won 21 games in 1961 and again 1962.

Pirates Wind-Up

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates wound up the conditioning phase of spring training Friday.

Gets Chance

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Righthander Jerry Stephenson gets his chance to prove himself to the Boston Red Sox today when he will be the starting pitcher against the San Francisco Giants.

The contest is the first of a three-day road trip for Boston, which plays the Giants in El Paso, Tex., today and Sunday, then invades the Cleveland camp at Tucson Monday.

Stevenson had a disappointing 4-20 record in the minors last year but has been impressive this spring, striking out seven batters in four innings against the Giants previously.

Big Gene Conley, determined to make his comeback a major one, draws the starting assignment Sunday. He has seven scoreless innings already and permitted only four singles to date.

Hits Grandslam

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Rookie John Stephens' grandslam home run highlighted a seven-run first inning Friday in an 8-1 victory for the Hickmans over the Stallards in the New York Mets' final intra-squad game.

Rookie Ron Swoboda cracked a bases-loaded double good for two runs in the same inning. All of the runs came off Jay Hook.

It was the first victory for the Stallards in nine intra-squad contests. The Hickmans had won five and tied three. Stallard, however, did not manage the team Friday. He was not available, so Duke Snider took over.

Hold Bears

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Rookies Phil Niekro, Wade Blasingame and Dick Smith held the Denver Bears to two hits in the Milwaukee Braves 4-1 exhibition victory Friday.

Cecil Butler, trying a comeback after an arm operation, held the Braves scoreless on one hit in the first three innings. The Braves the picked up two runs each off Jim Britton and John Braun.

Blasingame and Smith also drove in a run apiece, Smith with a triple. Ozzie Virgil, Ethan Blackaby and Woody Woodward had two hits for the Braves, Virgil's a double and a triple.

Horton Homers

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Rookie outfielder Willie Horton slammed a long home run Friday as the Detroit Tigers defeated the Tigertown farm team 7-4 in the last tune-up for the Grapefruit League season that opens Saturday.

Horton and Mickey Stanley each drove in two runs.

Bill Faul, who pitched six innings, was the winner.

Green Spotlighted

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — Attention will be focused on Dick Green, a rookie second baseman, and three young pitchers Saturday when the Kansas City Athletics open their exhibition schedule against the Pittsburgh Pirates at McKechnie Field.

Open Slate

COCOA, Fla. (AP)—The Houston Colts varsity squad opens its Grapefruit League exhibition schedule against the Philadelphia Phillies Saturday while the youthful B team meets the Phil B squad.

Hal Woodeshick, Claude Raymond and Joe Hoerner, top candidates for the club's relief pitching corps, will pitch for the varsity in that order.

Don Nottebart, a likely rival for Dick Farrell as the club's mound ace, will start for the B squad, with Jim Owens and Jim Ray due to follow.

After three weeks of conditioning, Manager Harry Craft said he would start judging his players Saturday.

"I'm pleased with the squad's physical condition and that's all that has been important up to now," Craft said.

Card Regulars Start

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Three St. Louis Cardinal pitchers who were regular starters last season and won a total of 46 games will work against the New York Mets Saturday in the opening Grapefruit League game. They are Ernie Broglio, Bob Gibson and Ray Sadecki.

Have Brisk Drill

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Manager Sam Mele sent his Minnesota Twins through a brisk two-hour workout Friday in the final tune-up for the first exhibition game of the season.

The Twins meet the Detroit Tigers Saturday.

Mele has named pitchers Dave Boswell, Jim Kaat and Chuck Nieson for the Twins. The Tigers will use Frank Lary, Ed Rakow and Dave Wickersham.

Colavito Signs

CHICAGO (AP)—Rocky Colavito, last of the Kansas City Athletic holdouts, agreed to contract terms Friday.

Owner Charles O. Finley said the outfielder had agreed by phone to accept $50,000.

Finley said Colavito had been holding out for an additional $25,000 should he be traded or sold during the 1964 season.

"I have nothing against a ball player making every effort to obtain for himself the best contract possible," Finley said. "We are expecting a great season out of Rocky."

Colavito is leaving immediately from his Reading, Pa., home for spring training at Bradenton, Fla., Finley said.

Colavito's salary last year with Detroit was $54,000.

RUSTON (Special) — Ruston High's undefeated baseball team racked up its fourth straight win of the year Friday with a 10-4 triumph over Bossier City on the Ruston diamond.

Reggie Cassibry, ace right-hander, went the distance for the Bearcats and allowed only six hits. Ruston rapped out 10 hits which, coupled with three Bossier errors, accounted for its 10 run total.

Melvin Shows led the assault on four Bossier pitchers with a three-for-four showing at the plate. Larry Creech, Jimmy Martin, and Cassibry each got two hits for Ruston.

The visitors drew first blood in the top of the first inning, but Ruston struck back with two markers in its half of the frame.

Bossier got three runs in the third but once again the winners scored in the same inning to erase the Bossier advantage, this time taking a 5-4 lead which was never relinquished.

Ruston piled on five more runs in the fourth stanza to end the scoring for the game.

The victory was the third by the AA Bearcats over AAA oponents.

GETS HELP FROM NICKLAUS

Bruce Devlin Grabs Lead In St. Petersburg Tourney

(AP) — Aussie Bruce Devlin, playing with some tips from American Jack Nicklaus, shot a sizzling second-round 64 Friday and grabbed a four-stroke lead at the halfway mark in the $25,000 St. Petersburg Open Golf Tournament.

The eight - under - par round came within a stroke of the record for the 6,215-yard Lakewood Country Club course. His 36-hole total was 133.

Four strokes back at 137 were Bob Shave of Willoughby, Ohio, and defending champion Raymond Floyd. Shave shot a 67 and Floyd 69.

Tied at 138 were Dave Hill, Billy Maxwell, Joe Campbell, Dave Ragan, Julius Boros, Juan (Chi Chi) Rodriguez, first round leader Bob Harrison, Duke Gibson, Billy Farrell and Don Fairfield.

The field was cut for the two final rounds to the 62 professionals who scored 143 or better.

Devlin attributed his fine round to Nicklaus.

"He spent an hour with me on the practice green yesterday working on my iron shots," said the slim young man from Canberra, Australia.

Nicklaus came in with a 69 for a 36-hole total of 140.

Two quit the tournament.

Charlie Sifford, the cigar-chewing Negro pro from Los Angeles, spotted a mistake on the scoreboard in his opening-round score. He reported it to PGA officials. Investigation showed he had signed for a wrong score and was automatically disqualified.

Interest In Traded Players High

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More than a dozen big league ballplayers sold or traded since the close of last season will be batting and-or pitching for new teams today when Florida's Grapefruit League opens with a seven-game exhibition schedule.

Cleveland, Boston, San Francisco and the Chicago Cubs, based in Arizona, and the Los Angeles Angels, whose training site is Palm Springs, Calif., got off to a week's head star in exhibition play.

Among the players on Florida - based teams who've changed big league uniforms since last season are outfielder Felipe Alou and catcher Ed Bailey, Milwaukee; second baseman Nellie Fox and outfielder Walt Bond, Houston; second baseman Jerry Lumpe and outfielder Don Demeter, Detroit; first baseman Norm Siebern and outfielder Willie Kirkland, Baltimore; pitcher Roger Craig, St. Louis; outfielder George Altman and shortstop Amado Samuel, New York Mets; first baseman Jim Gentile, Kansas City; first baseman Bill Skowron, Washington and catcher Gus Triandos, Philadelphia.

Skowron will be in the starting line-up of the Senators, who meet the Braves at Pompano Beach. Mike Brumley, up from the Pacific Coast League, will catch the offerings of Claude Osteen, Jim Hannan and Carl Bouldin.

The Colts, who face the Phillies at Clearwater, are anxious to see whether Bond, a 6-foot-6 outfielder obtained from Cleveland, can continue his hefty hitting in the exhibition games. He batted .800 in intra-squad games, including a 450-foot homer.

Yogi Berra, seeking to get off to a winning start in his first season as manager, will send three of the New York Yanks' best pitchers against Baltimore at Ft. Lauderdale. His nominees are Whitey Ford, Ralph Terry and Al Downing. Jim Bouton, another starter, is not scheduled to work until next week. He ended a salary squabble Wednesday by signing for $18,000 under threat of a $100-a-day penalty.

The Yanks called up Jack Reed, an outfielder, from their Richmond farm in International League Friday to fill out their roster for the exhibition games. He will be used by the parent club until Archie Moore, a rookie outfielder, is released by the Army later this month.

In other Grapefruit League games today, Minnesota plays Detroit at Lakeland, Pittsburgh meets Kansas City at Bradenton, Cincinnati faces the Chicago White Sox at Sarasota and the Mets go against the Cardinals at St. Petersburg.

The Mets actually jumped the exhibition gun last week with three games in Mexico. This week-end, the champion Los Angeles Dodgers play in Mexico City. They met the Mexico City Reds Friday night and face the Mexico City Reds tonight.

The Arizona-based Cleveland Indians will divide their squad into two units today with one meeting the Cubs at Mesa and the other taking on the Angels at Palm Springs. The Giants play the Red Sox at El Paso, Tex.

Training Camp Briefs

Sanford Hurls Six

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Burly right - hander Jack Sanford pitched six innings for the San Francisco Giants Friday as they maintained their mastery over the Cleveland Indians with a 5-2 exhibition victory.

Sanford gave up only three hits and one run, struck out five and walked three in going longer than any other Giant pitcher this spring. The victory put San Francisco's Cactus League record at 5-1.

Southpaw Jack Kralick was the loser before 2,985 in the new Phoenix Stadium as the Giants collected a pair of runs in the opening inning.

Jose Pagan's double and a pair of sacrifices brought in a second inning run and in the third. Mays doubled down the third base line, advanced on an infield out and scored on Jim Hart's sacrifice fly. The final run scored thanks to three eighth inning walks by Ted Abernathy plus an error.

Gaylord Perry finished after Sanford went out. The only run off Sanford came in the second inning. There could have been one more except for a double play.

Max Alvis opened with a double and Sanford walked Bob Chance and John Romano. Fred Whitfield rapped to Hiller at second for the start of a twin killing.

The Giants and Boston Red Sox go to El Paso, Tex., Saturday and Sunday for a two-game series.

Lets In Key Run

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—Bob Duliba's wild pitch enabled rookie Jimmy Stewart to score the winning run in the ninth inning Friday as the Chicago Cubs came from behind to defeat the Los Angeles Angels 6-5.

It was the Cubs' third straight victory and fifth in six spring games.

Trailing 5-3 going into the ninth the Cubs loaded the bases on Lou Holdener's single, a walk to pinch hitter Ellis Burton and a throwing error.

Rookie Billy Ott stroked a two-run single to center to tie the score at 5-5. Another error reloaded the bases before Duliba's wild pitch rolled to the screen as Stewart raced across the plate.

Leo Burke clubbed a three-run homer for Chicago to help erase an early 4-0 Angel lead.

Covington Hitting

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Outfielder Wes Covington hit two doubles Friday but his team lost 4-2 as the Philadelphia Phillies played their final intra-squad game of the spring training season.

The Phillies meet the Houston Colts Saturday and Sunday to open their exhibition season.

Covington's second double came off Jim Bunning, former Detroit right-hander who was making his first appearance in a squad game. It drove home the first of the two third inning runs, the other scoring on an error.

Aparicio Gains

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — John Powell, the Baltimore Orioles 22-year-old left-fielder, has lost 18 pounds in less than two weeks to weigh in at 233. But Baltimore now has another weight problem.

Luis Aparicio, the Bird's veteran shortstop, has picked up seven pounds on his desired 157 playing figure since he reported 12 days ago.

"I play winter ball an' I maybe not work too hard here so far," explained the 29 - year old who has been the American League base stealing champ for the last eight seasons.

"I have pretty good 10-12 days. I eat pretty good. Everything on menu."

"Now I get down to business," said Aparicio after a fly shagging drill while attired in an air - tight rubber reducing suit prescribed by Manager Hank Bauer.

"He say I seven pounds over. He say 'Get it off.' I lost pound a day. I not worried. I get it off."

Jay Still Absent

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds — with pitcher Joey Jay still absent from the spring training camp — held a short batting practice Friday in preparation for the exhibition opener today against the Chicago White Sox.

Manager Fred Hutchinson said he will use three left-handers against the Sox, Joe Nuxhall, Billy McColo and Chet Nichols.

Jey left camp suddenly Thursday for his home in Cincinnati; saying he wanted to take care of some "personal matters." Jay said he would rejoin the team today.

Hutchinson said Jay left without consent, and he indicated he would give him a "stiff fine" when he returns. Jay had a poor season last year, winning seven and losing 18.

Hutchinson said he plans "to rotate his pitchers as quickly as possible." He said he is looking forward to Jay coming back as "he's an important guy if the Reds are to be a pennant threat."

"Jay can make a comeback," Hutchinson said. "He didn't have any arm trouble last year and we'll be depending on him."

Jay won 21 games in 1961 and again in 1962.

Pirates Wind-Up

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)— The Pittsburgh Pirates wound up the conditioning phase of spring training Friday.

Gets Chance

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Righthander Jerry Stephenson gets his chance to prove himself to the Boston Red Sox today when he will be the starting pitcher against the San Francisco Giants.

The contest is the first of a three-day road trip for Boston, which plays the Giants in El Paso, Tex., today and Sunday, then invades the Cleveland camp at Tucson Monday.

Stevenson had a disappointing 4-20 record in the minors last year but has been impressive this spring, striking out seven batters in four innings against the Giants previously.

Big Gene Conley, determined to make his comeback a major one, draws the starting assignment Sunday. He has seven scoreless innings already and permitted only four singles to date.

Hits Grandslam

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —Rookie John Stephens' grandslam home run highlighted a seven-run first inning Friday in an 8-1 victory for the Hickmans over the Stallards in the New York Mets' final intra-squad game.

Rookie Ron Swoboda cracked a bases-loaded double good for two runs in the same inning. All of the runs came off Jay Hook.

It was the first victory for the Stallards in nine intra-squad contests. The Hickmans had won five and tied three. Stallard, however, did not manage the team Friday. He was not available, so Duke Snider took over.

Hold Bears

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Rookies Phil Niekro, Wade Blasingame and Dick Smith held the Denver Bears to two hits in the Milwaukee Braves 4-1 exhibition victory Friday.

Cecil Butler, trying a comeback after an arm operation, held the Braves scoreless on one hit in the first three innings. The Braves the picked up two runs each off Jim Britton and John Braun.

Blasingame and Smith also drove in a run apiece, Smith with a triple. Ozzie Virgil, Ethan Blackaby and Woody Woodward had two hits for the Braves, Virgil's a double and a triple.

Horton Homers

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Rookie outfielder Willie Horton slammed a long home run Friday as the Detroit Tigers defeated the Tigertown farm team 7-4 in the last tune-up for the Grapefruit League season that opens Saturday.

Horton and Mickey Stanley each drove in two runs.

Bill Faul, who pitched six innings, was the winner.

Green Spotlighted

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — Attention will be focused on Dick Green, a rookie second baseman, and three young pitchers Saturday when the Kansas City Athletics open their exhibition schedule against the Pittsburgh Pirates at McKechnie Field.

Open Slate

COCOA, Fla. (AP)—The Houston Colts varsity squad opens its Grapefruit League exhibition schedule against the Philadelphia Phillies Saturday while the youthful B team meets the Phil B squad.

Hal Woodeshick, Claude Raymond and Joe Hoerner, top candidates for the club's relief pitching corps, will pitch for the varsity in that order.

Don Nottebart, a likely rival for Dick Farrell as the club's mound ace, will start for the B squad, with Jim Owens and Jim Ray due to follow.

After three weeks of conditioning, Manager Harry Craft said he would start judging his players Saturday.

"I'm pleased with the squad's physical condition and that's all that has been important up to now," Craft said.

Card Regulars Start

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —Three St. Louis Cardinal pitchers who were regular starters last season and won a total of 46 games will work against the New York Mets Saturday in the opening Grapefruit League game. They are Ernie Broglio, Bob Gibson and Ray Sadecki.

Have Brisk Drill

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Manager Sam Mele sent his Minnesota Twins through a brisk two-hour workout Friday in the final tune-up for the first exhibition game of the season.

The Twins meet the Detroit Tigers Saturday.

Mele has named pitchers Dave Boswell, Jim Kaat and Chuck Nieson for the Twins. The Tigers will use Frank Lary, Ed Rakow and Dave Wickersham.

Colavito Signs

CHICAGO (AP)—Rocky Colavito, last of the Kansas City Athletic holdouts, agreed to contract terms Friday.

Owner Charles O. Finley said the outfielder had agreed by phone to accept $50,000.

Finley said Colavito had been holding out for an additional $25,000 should he be traded or sold during the 1964 season.

"I have nothing against a ball player making every effort to obtain for himself the best contract possible," Finley said. "We are expecting a great season out of Rocky."

Colavito is leaving immediately from his Reading, Pa., home for spring training at Bradenton, Fla., Finley said.

Colavito's salary last year with Detroit was $54,000.

AFTER ARMY EXAM

'I Did All Right, I Guess'—Cassius

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—After a three-hour written examination, Cassius Clay emerged from an Army center Friday and announced: "I did all right, I guess."

The heavyweight champion will learn the outcome in about four weeks. "I'll know when they call me."

The Army ordered him to take the examination again after his first test in Florida last January was inconclusive.

This one, said Clay, "was a little tougher, more to it. But I'm sure I did okay."

The 22-year-old boxer, neatly dressed in a dark suit, then posed with Lt. Col. David Dixon, commanding officer of the recruiting station. He declined, however, to be photographed wearing an Army cap.

"I ain't in no army yet," he explained. "I been warned about photographers.

"Why, they even took a picture of me in New York last week with some model and it's on the cover of a magazine. And now they say we're engaged."

Clay, accompanied by his personal photographer, Howard Bingham, showed up at the draft board at 7:20 a.m. and said "I'm early, ain't I?"

The Army thought he was late, that he should have been there at 6:45 a.m. But Clay contended his notice said 7:30.

He asked if Bingham could drive him to the testing center, but was turned down. "We have an Army staff car here for you," he was told. He wasn't, however, getting VIP treatment. The regular transportation—a bus—was not available.

Clay was alone for one part of the test then joined about 125 other men for other portions. It was divided into four sections, consisting of arithmetic, English, mechanical aptitudes, and pattern analysis.

Was Clay nervous? He didn't say but a man who sat next to him reported the champion appeared nervous. At one point, walking to another testing room he forgot his overcoat.

Maj. Tom Farrington, public information officer, said that if Clay passed the examination, it would not preclude his enlistment in a reserve unit for six months.

"He'd have to find one with a vacancy," Farrington explained.

If Clay were inducted, Farrington said, "chances are good he would be sent to Fort Knox for training."

He also said the papers will be processed through selective service offices in Washington, then returned to state headquarters in Frankfort and eventually to his local draft board.

When Clay arrived this morning, one soldier reminded him it was Friday, the 13th.

The champion grinned. "Don't bother me. I've always been lucky," he said.

HAS PERSONAL PROBLEMS

Howard Says Playing This Year Almost Impossible

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Big Frank Howard, the Los Angeles Dodgers' king of long distance homers, said Friday it would be "virtualy impossible" for him to play baseball this season.

"I doubt very, very much if I'll be able to play," the 27-year-old slugger told The Associated Press after talking by telephone with Dodger General Manager Buzzie Bavasi.

"Spring training is well advanced and I'm so far out of shape both mentally and physically that it would be virtually impossible for me to play," Howard said. "To be honest with you, I haven't even given a thought to baseball."

Howard originally planned to visit Bavasi at the Los Angeles camp in Vero Beach, Fla., but he said that since the story of his possible retirement "broke prematurely I guess that isn't much sense to going now."

"After all, Buzzie and I talked about the situation and there is not much else to say," Howard said. "I told him that the way I feel now, mentally and physically, I'm not in a good frame of mind to play baseball and if I tried I would be doing an injustice to the club and more so to myself.

"Buzzie told me to relax and get myself straightened out. He spoke as a friend, not as a general manager. That's the way he always has been. The Dodgers have been more than good to me. But the way I feel now, I couldn't play for them or anyone else."

Asked if he felt he was through with baseball for good, Howard replied:

"I don't like to say so definitely, but things would have to take an awful big turn of events to permit me to play at least this year."

Howard said he has "several personal problems" that have to be worked out.

"As I told Buzzie, a combination of things hit me all at once," he said. "Either way, I'm confident things will work out, but I can't think of baseball at this time."

Howard signed with the Dodgers for a $108,000 bonus after graduation from Ohio State. He broke into organized baseball with the old Green Bay Bluejays in the Three-I league in 1958 and married a Green Bay girl the next year. They have four children.

Frick Says Yanks Can't Fine Bouton

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Commissioner Ford Frick warned the New York Yankees they could not fine a player before he signed a contract, General Manager Ralph Houk admitted Friday.

Houk was being questioned about a story in the New York Daily News, written by Dick Young, that Houk had announced his threat to fine holdout Jim Bouton, a 21-game winner last year, despite the Frick warning.

"Yes, I called the commissioner," Houk said, "but I am amazed he made our conversation public."

Bouton was told last Monday by Houk that he would be penalized $100 each day he was absent from the training camp after Wednesday midnight. The pitcher, the club's first major holdout in 25 years, was seeking a raise from $10,000 to $20,000. He settled for an estimated $18,000.

"I thought I was doing Bouton a favor by getting him down here," Houk added.

When he announced his capitulation to the Yankee ultimatum, Bouton merely said, "What can I do? They have me over a barrel."

He refused to talk about the incident Friday except to say "What was I to do, become a martyr?"

Frick, making a tour of Florida training camps, could not be reached.

"Have you tried this Yellowstone Whiskey they're talking about?"

One drink of Yellowstone and a friend tells a friend. That's how the word gets around.

Yellowstone is known as the Greatest American Whiskey. Probably got this handle because of its historic association with the Old West.

It's made by an exclusive process called Mellow-Mash. This gives Yellowstone a gentle lightness, yet a rich and most pleasing flavor—that's right, no bite!

There's something about Yellowstone that's causing a quiet move to this unusually fine Kentucky Bourbon.

Frank Broyles, whose Arkansas football teams have won or shared three Southwest Conference championships, and four members of his staff will be the lecturers at the annual Northeast State Football Clinic Saturday, March 21.

Dixie White, Northeast athletic director and head football coach, announced the clinic this week. White was formerly a member of Broyles' staff.

Arkansas assistant coaches who will participate in the clinic are Jim MacKenzie, defensive coach and assistant head coach; ends and linebackers; Bill Pace, offensive backfield coach and in charge of the Arkansas offense; and Steed White, offensive line coach.

The clinic will open with a barbecue Friday night at the American Legion Home in Forsythe Park. Registration will begin at 7:30 Saturday morning and lectures will begin at 8:30 in the College Union Auditorium and continue through 3 p.m.

The Northeast clinic will conclude with the annual intrasquad scrimmage, which will end spring grid practice at the college. The scrimmage will begin at 3:15 in Brown Stadium.

Open to high school coaches only, the coaching clinic is the third to be held at Northeast. Former lecturers have been Tom Landry, head coach of the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League; Coach Hank Stram of the Kansas City Chiefs of the American Football League; John Bridgers, Baylor head coach; and Charles McClendon, head coach at LSU.

Broyles' Arkansas team won or shared the SWC championship in 1959, 1960 and 1961. His Razorback clubs have played in four bowl games and in seven season have won 48 games, lost 25 and tied one.

A star quarterback under Bobby Dodd at Georgia Tech, Broyles was an assistant at his alma mater before going to Arkansas.

AFTER ARMY EXAM

'I Did All Right, I Guess'—Cassius

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—After a three-hour written examination, Cassius Clay emerged from an Army center Friday and announced: "I did all right, I guess."

The heavyweight champion will learn the outcome in about four weeks. "I'll know when they call me."

The Army ordered him to take the examination again after his first test in Florida last January was inconclusive.

This one, said Clay, "was a little tougher, more to it. But I'm sure I did okay."

The 22-year-old boxer, neatly dressed in a dark suit, then posed with Lt. Col. David Dixon, commanding officer of the recruiting station. He declined, however, to be photographed wearing an Army cap.

"I ain't in no army yet," he explained. "I been warned about photographers.

"Why, they even took a picture of me in New York last week with some model and it's on the cover of a magazine. And now they say we're engaged."

Clay, accompanied by his personal photographer, Howard Bingham, showed up at the draft board at 7:20 a.m. and said "I'm early, ain't I?"

The Army thought he was late, that he should have been there at 6:45 a.m. But Clay contended his notice said 7:30.

He asked if Bingham could drive him to the testing center, but was turned down. "We have an Army staff car here for you," he was told. He wasn't, however, getting VIP treatment. The regular transportation—a bus—was not available.

Clay was alone for one part of the test then joined about 125 other men for other portions. It was divided into four sections, consisting of arithmetic, English, mechanical aptitudes, and pattern analysis.

Was Clay nervous? He didn't say but a man who sat next to him reported the champion appeared nervous. At one point, walking to another testing room he forgot his overcoat.

Maj. Tom Farrington, public information officer, said that if Clay passed the examination, it would not preclude his enlistment in a reserve unit for six months.

"He'd have to find one with a vacancy," Farrington explained.

If Clay were inducted, Farrington said, "chances are good he would be sent to Fort Knox for training."

He also said the papers will be processed through selective service offices in Washington, then returned to state headquarters in Frankfort and eventually to his local draft board.

When Clay arrived this morning, one soldier reminded him it was Friday, the 13th.

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Many women fail to realize that their hair is actually a living part of them. It is not something which grows on the outside of us but is an extension of us, the same as our fingers or toes are. Therefore anything which affects our body and health generally has a direct effect on our hair.

The condition of the skin and the hair reflects the state of health. Therefore, fine nutrition is essential. Unless the hair is properly fed it cannot prosper.

It is a well-known fact that tension and emotional disturbances have an unhappy impact on hair. Certain types of baldness follow times of prolonged strain. When the pressure is taken off the hair usually grows back again.

The hair, like the rest of our tissues and organs, is fed by our bloodstream. Therefore the better the circulation, the better the condition of our tresses. Many of the lotions and ointments which are used in combating thinning hair, stir up circulation. The hair is parted all over the head and the lotion is applied to the scalp, not the hair. As a result of increased circulation the scalp becomes very pink temporarily.

You can stir up circulation in your scalp by giving yourself a massage every night or once some time during the day. If you do this correctly it is most beneficial. Just rubbing your fingers over your scalp may be more harmful than helpful.

Do it this way: spread your fingers and place them on your head. Keep your fingers in the same position, pressed against your scalp, as you rotate your hands. Change the position of your hands until you have covered your entire head. In this type massage you move your scalp, not your fingers.

There is some scientific backing for the old idea that thight hat bands may be a factor which encourages baldness. However people do not wear hats as much of the time as they once did.

Pink camellias surrounding the cake and pink candles completed the decor for the table, which was covered with a white cloth.

Twin Cities Twins Club Installs First Officers

The first annual meeting of the newly formed Twin Cities Twins Club was held Tuesday evening, March 10 in the home of Mrs. Paul Cowan Jr. on Bienville. Purpose of the meeting was to install the first slate of officers to serve the group for the coming year.

A "Twin" theme was carried out in the decorations of the Cowan home for the social meeting. A miniature twin stroller and dolls greeted members and their guests in the entrance hall, while twin cherubs adorned a lace covered table. The floral arrangement consisted of yellow daffodils and pale green grapes in a large white compote.

Mrs. H. E. McCleskey, temporary chairman of the group, administered the oath of office to Mrs. Ebert Van Buren, president; Mrs. Bryan Ritter, vice president; Mrs. Robert M. Butler, secretary and Mrs. James Bennett, treasurer.

During the brief business meeting, discussion was held concerning the membership drive now under way by the club, in which all mothers of twins are urged to become members of the group. All new members coming into the club through the month of June will be considered charter members.

The next meeting will be held on Thursday, April 16 at 7:30 p.m. in the First National Bank of West Monroe with Dr. Edward J. Brown as guest speaker.

The hostesses for the meeting, Mrs. Sam LaDart, Mrs. Sam Marzula and Mrs. James Easterling, served refreshments to Mrs. McCleskey, Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Bennett, Mrs. Ritter, Mrs. Van Buren, Mrs. Cowan, Mrs. Ernest Kilgore, Mrs. J. O. Boyd, Mrs. J. M. Mitchell, Mrs. Fred Burt, Mrs. Fred Knight and Mrs. Samuel Sloan and guests, Mrs. Ernest Kilcrease, Mrs. V. L. Martin, Mrs. W. F. Tubbs and Mrs. Johnny Myers.

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Many women fail to realize that their hair is actually a living part of them. It is not something which grows on the outside of us but is an extension of us, the same as our fingers or toes are. Therefore anything which affects our body and health generally has a direct effect on our hair.

The condition of the skin and the hair reflects the state of health. Therefore, fine nutrition is essential. Unless the hair is properly fed it cannot prosper.

It is a well-known fact that tension and emotional disturbances have an unhappy impact on hair. Certain types of baldness follow times of prolonged strain. When the pressure is taken off the hair usually grows back again.

The hair, like the rest of our tissues and organs, is fed by our bloodstream. Therefore the better the circulation, the better the condition of our tresses. Many of the lotions and ointments which are used in combating thinning hair, stir up circulation. The hair is parted all over the head and the lotion is applied to the scalp, not the hair. As a result of increased circulation the scalp becomes very pink temporarily.

You can stir up circulation in your scalp by giving yourself a massage every night or once some time during the day. If you do this correctly it is most beneficial. Just rubbing your fingers over your scalp may be more harmful than helpful.

Do it this way; spread your fingers and place them on your head. Keep your fingers in the same position, pressed against your scalp, as you rotate your hands. Change the position of your hands until you have covered your entire head. In this type massage you move your scalp, not your fingers.

There is some scientific backing for the old idea that thight hat bands may be a factor which encourages baldness. However people do not wear hats as much of the time as they once did.

GREEK BAGS POPULAR ON CAMPUS

Greek bags — neither pocketbook nor book bag but a little of both — are gaining in popularity as catch-alls on those Eastern college campuses. Open-mouthed and strapped at the shoulder, they're made of brightly colored woven wools and decorated with tassles. Once proof of travel, the bags are available as copies at low prices in most department stores or as imports at fancier prices.

BOWS ARE BIGGER AND BETTER

Bows are big, bigger and biggest this year. Christian Dior of Paris casually bows a scarf at the suit neck. Yves St. Laurent likes the prim but pert school girl or Mary Poppins bow.

MR. AND MRS. J. T. WILLIAMS

Ann Parker Marries In Epps Ceremony

Miss Ann Parker, daughter of Hardy Parker of Crowville and the late Mrs. Parker, became the bride of J. T. Williams on Friday evening, February 28 in the First Baptist Church of Epps. Parents of the groom are Mrs. Mildred Williams and the late J. V. Williams of Epps.

The Rev. Basil T. Halbert officiated at the ceremony before an arch entwined with greenery and centered with a white satin wedding bow. Seven branched candelabra flanked the archway.

Given in marriage by her brother, Carl Parker of Crowville, the bride wore a short gown of white satin and lace featuring a jewel neckline, fitted bodice and long pointed sleeves. Her shoulder length veil of illusion fell from a bandeau of mock orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of lillies of the valley encircling a white orchid.

Mrs. Jeneatta Ingram served as matron of honor, her gown was of blue brocade, and she carried a yellow pompon nosegay. Candlelighters were Vickie Ingram and Beverly Reynolds, who wore matching pink brocade gowns and wrist corsages of white pompons.

Best man was Jerry McVay of Monroe and ushers were C. L. Rundell Jr. of Delhi and W. T. Reynolds Jr. of Holly Ridge.

Mrs. Williams, mother of the groom, wore a red wool suit with black accessories and corsage of white pompons.

The bride's table with Mrs. Mildred Corley and Mrs. Ann McVay serving, was overlaid with white lace and centered with the matron of honor's bouquet beside a candelabra filled with yellow pompons. Tea girl was Miss Barbara Tarver.

DEAR ABBY

Perhaps Friends Are Just Trying To Help

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 32-year-old widow with four boys to raise. I have no desire to marry again, but all my firends tell me my boys need a father. They are always arranging for me to meet this man and that man. I love my boys very much, and am raising them in a good Chrisian atmosphere. They are good boys, and I discipline them whne they need it just as a father would do. I take in sewing and manage to keep my bills paid, so I don't need a husband to support us. I believe if the good Lord intends for me to have another husband, He will take care of it Himself. Do you think I should accept the company of men with marriage in mind just because people think my boys need a father, even though I don't think I need a husband?

SATISFIED

DEAR SATISFIED: As a Christian you must know that the Lord said, "It is not good that man should be alone." (Genesis II, 18.) And the same goes for woman. God helps those who help themselves, and perhaps God is trying to help you through thoughtful friends.

DEAR ABBY: Have you any suggestions for getting our son to date a certain girl? This girl is charming, intelligent, has a wonderful personality, and would be an ideal match for our son. He is 25, but he seems to prefer the more glamorous, flirty type. We know that once he gets to know this girl, he would appreciate her fine qualities.

PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: I can't tell you how to get your son to date a certain girl, but I can tell you how to sour him on her before he even sees her. Just keep telling him how "good" she would be for him! Your best move would be to arrange for them to meet "accidentally." And let him "discover" her for himself.

DEAR ABBY: Our baby is only three months old. My husband's family is quite wealthy and they have spent a lot on gifts for her. I must admit there is a great deal our baby wouldn't have if it weren't for them. On the other hand, my parents barely make ends meet, and, though they would love to buy things for our baby, they can't afford to. Ours is the only grandchild on both sides, and both sets of grandparents are wild about her. But we don't want her to grow up thinking that because all the presents come from one set of grandparents the other set doesn't love her as much. What can we do about this? Or should we just keep quite and teach our child that love means more than presents?

NEW PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: The affection of very young children is easily bought with gifts. It takes a mature mind to reason that "love" means more than presents. Your husband should explain this to his generous parents. They'll understand.

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a man who comes into someone's home and sits the entire evening in the company of men and women without removing his hat? Thank you.

D. McC.

DEAR D.: He has either no manners, no hair, or a new hat.

Get it off your chest. For a personal, unpublished reply, write to ABBY, in care of News Star. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

TOURISM INCOME

OTTAWA (AP)—The director of the government travel bureau, Alan Field, told Parliament that Canada could build up by 1967 an annual income of a billion dollars from tourism. This, he said, would outdo wheat and newsprint exports as the country's biggest dollar earner.

She presented her mother with a gift as a token for her love and presented each of the installing officers with a gift. After expressing the appreciation of the chapter and the assembly, a gift was also given to Mrs. Rhea Garner.

The Masonic Temple was decorated throughout with permanent arrangements of orchids. In the East was a rainbow with the traditional pot of gold at the end. The tea table was draped with an orchid colored cloth with net overskirt and miniature orchids outlined the edges. A tiny Rainbow centered the table flanked by more orchids on each side of a doll standing in front of the Rainbow. Lavender punch was ladled from a crystal punch bowl at one end of the table.

Approximately 125 friends and visitors from throughout the state attended the occasion.

DEAR ABBY

Perhaps Friends Are Just Trying To Help

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 32-year-old widow with four boys to raise. I have no desire to marry again, but all my firends tell me my boys need a father. They are always arranging for me to meet this man and that man. I love my boys very much, and am raising them in a good Chrisian atmosphere. They are good boys, and I discipline them whne they need it just as a father would do. I take in sewing and manage to keep my bills paid, so I don't need a husband to support us. I believe if the good Lord intends for me to have another husband, He will take care of it Himself. Do you think I should accept the company of men with marriage in mind just because people think my boys need a father, even though I don't think I need a husband?

SATISFIED

DEAR SATISFIED: As a Christian you must know that the Lord said, "It is not good that man should be alone." (Genesis II, 18.) And the same goes for woman. God helps those who help themselves, and perhaps God is trying to help you through thoughtful friends.

DEAR ABBY: Have you any suggestions for getting our son to date a certain girl? This girl is charming, intelligent, has a wonderful personality, and would be an ideal match for our son. He is 25, but he seems to prefer the more glamorous, flirty type. We know that once he gets to know this girl, he would appreciate her fine qualities.

PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: I can't tell you how to get your son to date a certain girl, but I can tell you how to sour him on her before he even sees her. Just keep telling him how "good" she would be for him! Your best move would be to arrange for them to meet "accidentally." And let him "discover" her for himself.

DEAR ABBY: Our baby is only three months old. My husband's family is quite wealthy and they have spent a lot on gifts for her. I must admit there is a great deal our baby wouldn't have if it weren't for them. On the other hand, my parents barely make ends meet, and, though they would love to buy things for our baby, they can't afford to. Ours is the only grandchild on both sides, and both sets of grandparents are wild about her. But we don't want her to grow up thinking that because all the presents come from one set of grandparents the other set doesn't love her as much. What can we do about this? Or should we just keep quite and teach our child that love means more than presents?

NEW PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: The affection of very young children is easily bought with gifts. It takes a mature mind to reason that "love" means more than presents. Your husband should explain this to his generous parents. They'll understand.

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a man who comes into someone's home and sits the entire evening in the company of men and women without removing his hat? Thank you.

D. McC.

DEAR D.: He has either no manners, no hair, or a new hat.

Get it off your chest. For a personal, unpublished reply, write to ABBY, in care of News Star. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

TOURISM INCOME

OTTAWA (AP)—The director of the government travel bureau, Alan Field, told Parliament that Canada could build up by 1967 an annual income of a billion dollars from tourism. This, he said, would outdo wheat and newsprint exports as the country's biggest dollar earner.

Ann Parker Marries In Epps Ceremony

Miss Ann Parker, daughter of Hardy Parker of Crowville and the late Mrs. Parker, became the bride of J. T. Williams on Friday evening, February 28 in the First Baptist Church of Epps. Parents of the groom are Mrs. Mildred Williams and the late J. V. Williams of Epps.

The Rev. Basil T. Halbert officiated at the ceremony before an arch entwined with greenery and centered with a white satin wedding bow. Seven branched candelabra flanked the archway.

Given in marriage by her brother, Carl Parker of Crowville, the bride wore a short gown of white satin and lace featuring a jewel neckline, fitted bodice and long pointed sleeves. Her shoulder length veil of illusion fell from a bandeau of mock orange blossoms. and she carried a bouquet of lillies of the valley encircling a white orchid.

Mrs. Jeneatta Ingram served as matron of honor, her gown was of blue brocade, and she carried a yellow pompon nosegay. Candlelighters were Vickie Ingram and Beverly Reynolds, who wore matching pink brocade gowns and wrist corsages of white pompons.

Best man was Jerry McVay of Monroe and ushers were C. L. Rundell Jr. of Delhi and W. T. Reynolds Jr. of Holly Ridge.

Mrs. Williams, mother of the groom, wore a red wool suit with black accessories and corsage of white pompons.

The bride's table with Mrs. Mildred Corley and Mrs. Ann McVay serving, was overlaid with white lace and centered with the matron of honor's bouquet beside a candelabra filled with yellow pompons. Tea girl was Miss Barbara Tarver.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Cold Water Puts Stop To Boiled Egg Cooking

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Did you know that when boiling eggs . . . . if they are taken from the boiling water as soon as the timing period is over and placed at nce in cld water and placed at once in cold water . . . the yoke will stay yellow instead of having that greenish color form around it?

S.F.

Yes, I did, and you are exactly right.

Did you also know that as soon as the boiling period is over that placing the egg in cold water will prevent it from further cooking and keeps the white from being tough?

If any of you ladies doubt this take two eggs, boil one egg for the usual amount of time. Take a spoon and dip it out of the boiling water and place in cold water immediately. Let the other egg boil a few minutes longer or place the lid on top of the pan and let it set until the water gets cold. Then . . . shell both eggs and see for yourself which egg has the tenderest white!

And, ladies, don't knock it until you try it!

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

If you or any of your readers have ever tried to put out a cigarette while driving a car and trying to watch the traffic at the same time, only to have it set in the ash tray and smolder and smell . . . .

I am sure many are tempted . . . . but please do not throw the cigarette out the window.

Just fill the ash trays in the car over half-full with sand! Stick the cigarette straight down into the sand and it will go out with no smoldering whatsoever.

To clean the ashtray, pick out the cigarette stubs. There is no need to change the sand often.

If you do not have any sand, buy a box of bird gravel.

We have been using this idea in public buildings for years but I'd never thought about using it for cars until recently . . . . and it works.

Mrs. A. Rutherford

Dear Heloise:

What nationality are you? Could you possibly be Hawaiian? And what's your husbands name? Abelard?

Prudence

Dear Prudence:

I am Scotch and Irish! Really a bad combination when my dander gets up.

And I was born in Texas. But . . . I have been gone from that territory for over 20 years. I was married (and still am) to a military man. And his name is not Abelard. It's Mike.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

To prevent tearing at the most tugged end of the shower curtain, fold the first eye into the second eye and insert a single hook.

Mrs. R. P. Dang

Dear Heloise:

When I make a big batch of our favorite spaghetti sauce, and after we have used it for our spaghetti, I take what's left — add green peppers and minute rice for a delicious Spanish rice. It's real easy for the second meal.

Judy

Dear Heloise:

I have discovered a way to do my old, limp, drip-dry, dacron, crisscross curtains — which makes them hang and drape like they did when they were new.

This requires no pre-starching.

I wash and drip dry them in the usual way. Then hang them up and tie them back and drape the first curtain — getting all of the folds in perfect shape.

Then . . . . I get out the can of spray starch and spray the curtain gently and let it dry. Later I do the top "crossed" curtain in the same manner.

These curtains stay in place — just as you have draped them—until the next washing.

If some of the starch goes through to the windowpane (this does happen if you get the spray too close to the curtain) a bit of window cleaner on a cloth will take it off. Just reach up under the dry curtains and wipe it off. Or lay a newspaper against the pane before hanging and spraying with the starch, and it can be removed afterwards.

A Steady Reader

Ladies, I just have to give credit to Mrs. Dawns for this terrific idea. I tried it and it's a gold mine on the end of the rainbow we are always looking for . . . .

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

For the gals who dirty a pan just to melt some baking chocolate . . . wrap the proper amount of chocolate in some foil and them put it into a pan. Keep the fire on as low as possible (usually called "simmer" or "warming").

When the chocolate is melted just open the foil and use a rubber scraper to remove it from the wrapper. This is so simple and makes for one less pan to wash!

Truman Thinks World Becoming Better All Time

SHANNON, Ireland (AP)—"The world is getting better all the time and it's in much better shape than when I was president," Harry Truman told newsmen at Shannon Airport en route home Friday from the funeral of King Paul in Athens.

Truman refused to comment on the U.S. political situation.

Briton Denies Note Found In Mussolini Diary

FLORENCE, Italy (AP)—An Italian historian claims he has found a 1943-45 diary of Benito Mussolini telling of a British warning that Soviet troops might invade Italy through Yugoslavia.

The alleged author of the warning, Field Marshal Earl Alexander, denied he had sent such a message.

Duilio Susmel, author of a major biography of Italy's Fascist dictator, said he collected photostatic copies of 400 pages of unpublished diary in Germany, Switzerland and Italy.

Authenticity of Susmel's documents has not been established. He said they cover the period from April 1943, to April 1945.

a word to the bride from Trend House

how to marry the right sterling, and live happily ever after!

As a bride selecting your silver, you will be making a lifetime purchase. Here are a few points to ponder in making your decision.

When selecting design, see that it lends itself to good balance. The knife should rest easily on a plate and should lay flat on the table.

Decide what serving pieces you want, then see if the particular pattern functions well in all its different serving pieces, and if you want luncheon, place or dinner size. Be sure that you find the meaning of "how heavy is heavy weight sterling."

Examine your pattern to be sure of its design and craftsmanship in its design. Edges should be smooth, round, well polished and finished.

Let Trend House help you select a silver pattern that will hold a place of honor in your future . . . a pattern you will enjoy for years to come.

DOGS GET COOKIES from Winnsboro postman Walter Huff because he wants to keep on good terms with them and avoid the plight of many mailmen. Huff, who started the cookie-sharing plan four and one-half years ago, says the plan works. Presently, the U.S. Post Office Department is planning to equip postmen with dog repellents to cut down on the million dollar sick leave and medical bill piled up as a result of dog bites. Huff says he thinks he can make friends with any dog by using his cookie come-on. (Photo by Otis Hassell)

Tourists To See 50,000 Tulips In Newellton Area

NEWELLTON (Special) — This Mississippi River community will be a showplace for 50,000 tulips plus several thousand other flowers during the next two weeks.

The tourist attraction, centered in Newellton, also will be reflected in the Delta communities of Tallulah and St. Joseph. Visitors from throughout the nation are expected to view the flowers.

E. R. McDonald Sr., Tensas parish police jury president who launched the tulip beautification project here a year ago, said that 20,000 tulips are growing in the town itself, plus more than 30,000 along U.S. Highway 65 on either side of the community.

Easter Sunday, March 29, is the date for the main tulip show, which also is expected to attract tourists enroute to or coming from the Pilgrimages in Vicksburg and Natchez, Miss.

Youngsters dressed in authentic Dutch costumes from Holland will be stationed at Windmill sites on either side of town, and small maps will be distributed to visitors, suggesting a tour of the outstanding garden sites, from 2 to 6 p.m. on Easter.

"Commencing this weekend, we will have a beautiful showing for those who want to view it," said McDonald, who planted 30,000 of the bulbs along the highway on his Verona plantation.

Tulips also will be featured on Jack Mabry's Somerset Plantation just north of town.

Tallulah, at the intersection of U.S. Highway 80 and U.S. 65, has tulips along the bayou and at the Agricultural Service office where agent D. D. Woods has planted 1,000 bulbs.

The newly restored Courthouse in St. Joseph off U.S. 65 is the site for 2,000 tulips and 1500 anemones.

Other flowers included in the Newellton project include several thousand renunculas, solid and mixed pansies, anemones and imported Dutch Iris.

Tourists To See 50,000 Tulips In Newellton Area

NEWELLTON (Special) — This Mississippi River community will be a showplace for 50,000 tulips plus several thousand other flowers during the next two weeks.

The tourist attraction, centered in Newellton, also will be reflected in the Delta communities of Tallulah and St. Joseph. Visitors from throughout the nation are expected to view the flowers.

E. R. McDonald Sr., Tensas parish police jury president who launched the tulip beautification project here a year ago, said that 20,000 tulips are growing in the town itself, plus more than 30,000 along U.S. Highway 65 on either side of the community.

Easter Sunday, March 29, is the date for the main tulip show, which also is expected to attract tourists enroute to or coming from the Pilgrimages in Vicksburg and Natchez, Miss.

Youngsters dressed in authentic Dutch costumes from Holland will be stationed at Windmill sites on either side of town, and small maps will be distributed to visitors, suggesting a tour of the outstanding garden sites, from 2 to 6 p.m. on Easter.

"Commencing this weekend, we will have a beautiful showing for those who want to view it," said McDonald, who planted 30,000 of the bulbs along the highway on his Verona plantation.

Tulips also will be featured on Jack Mabry's Somerset Plantation just north of town.

Tallulah, at the intersection of U.S. Highway 80 and U.S. 65, has tulips along the bayou and at the Agricultural Service office where agent D. D. Woods has planted 1,000 bulbs.

The newly restored Courthouse in St. Joseph off U.S. 65 is the site for 2,000 tulips and 1500 anemones.

Other flowers included in the Newellton project include several thousand renunculas, solid and mixed pansies, anemones and imported Dutch Iris.

French Laborers Set Strike Against De Gaulle

PARIS (AP)—A one-day protest strike against President Charles de Gaulle's labor policy is set for next Wednesday while the president is in Mexico City.

The strike was called by the Communist-led General Confederation of Workers. Several other unions are taking a hard look before joining.

Unions already committed intend to cut electrical power, halt trains and subways, call off school for the day, and hold up mail deliveries. The unions' main demand is for more wages.

Some unions saw this as a constructive step on the government's part and were reserving judgment on whether to join the strike.

The confederation and several close followers decided to strike anyway to protest wage scales which remain frozen. They say also that government efforts to hold down retail prices have failed. The government claims its stabilization program is meeting with success.

The unions charge the government has not fulfilled last year's promise to meet periodically with labor and to accord an annual 4 per cent "expansion" increase.

AUCHWITZ HEARINGS

Red Haired Jewess Tells Of Tortures

FRANKFURT, Germany — (UPI) — A red haired Jewish woman who said she was treated "very nice" by Wilhelm Boger, Friday told of seeing the broken bodies of the victims of the accused master torturer of the Auschwitz death camp.

Mrs. Maryla Rosenthal, 57, testifide at the trial of 21 former Nazi officials and a turncoat inmate accused of taking part in the murders of up to 4 million persons in the infamous camp during World War II.

Another former inmate, who admitted he helped the Gestapo hang a fellow prisoner and then retrieved the half-smoked cigarette he had given the victim, singled out two other defendants in his testimony.

The stylishly dressed Mrs. Rosenthal, who lives in Zurich, said she spent two years as Boger's inmate secretary. She told of watching Boger kicking and beating prisoners before leading them off to his "talking machine."

The device Boger called the "talking machine" was the whipping apparatus inmates referred to as "the Boger swing," she said.

"Two hours later, I would see the victim again," she said. "He would be lying on a stretcher. I wouldn't recognize him any more. He would be unlike a human being, almost dead."

Mrs. Rosenthal said Boger was nicknamed "the devil" by inmates. But, she said: "Mr. Boger was very nice to me."

"He once brought me shoes and a jacket. And he permitted me to eat extra food in the toilet," she said.

"He once told me he had nothing against the Jews, 'but I hate Poles — those damned Polacks."

Mrs. Rosenthal said Boger saved her life once when an inmate spy "turned me in for not properly dusting" furniture. She said Boger had her transferred from "certain death" in a punishment unit to the Auschwitz gypsy camp.

"I was awakened one night by screams and terrible shouts," she said. "The next morning I found out they had gassed all the gypsies."

Mrs. Rosenthal, who said she lost her sister and brothers, her parents and her fiancee in Nazi death camps, told the court that she often cried when she saw prisoners after being tortured on the "Boger swing."
